Cycle Rider, Motorist Die Of Injuries

Willard Stephens, Isaac Lyle Claimed In Recent Mishaps

County's 1960 Traffic Toll
20 Killed
This date in 1959—24 Killed!
'DON'T DRIVE LIKE 60'

Two area men died at City Hospital Tuesday evening of injuries suffered in separate traffic accidents.

Claimed were Willard Stephens, 30, of 725 Washington Ave., Wellsville, who was injured in a motorcycle auto accident Monday afternoon on Route 213 near Hammondsville and Isaac A. Lyle, 73, of Orion Ave., Chester, who was involved in an auto crash Sunday, Oct. 2, on Lisbon St.

Mr. Stephens died at 7:10 p. m. and Mr. Lyle at 6:50 p. m. Mr. Lyle's death marks the 20th traffic fatality in Columbiana County, compared with 24 in the same period last year. The motorcycle accident was in Jefferson County.

Mr. Stephens was riding the motorcycle driven by Edward Emler, 25, of 844½ Fairview St., his half-brother, which crashed into a car driven by Mrs. Kathleen E. Wedger, 2115 Chester Ave., Wellsville.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said Emler rounded a shallow curve on the wrong side at a high rate of speed and collided nearly head-on with the car. Emler is in "fair" condition today at the hospital with a fractured back, crushed spine, internal injuries and severe multiple lacerations and abrasions of the face.

Mr. Stephens suffered severe internal injuries, a crushed spine, compound fracture and dislocation of the right leg and a fractured right arm.

Two passengers in the Wedger auto, her son, George Wedger, 3, and Mrs. Martha Fultz, 42, of Wellsville, escaped injury.

Mr. Lyle and his widow, Mrs. Kathryn Lyle, also 73, both were injured in a spectacular accident in which their car careened down Lisbon St., striking two parked autos and a retaining wall. Mrs. Lyle remains in "fair" condition at the hospital.

Mr. Lyle suffered a fractured skull and brain concussion and Mrs. Lyle received severe shock and lacerations of the left elbow.

City police said Mr. Lyle was making a left turn from W. 9th St. onto Lisbon and pulled in front of a north-bound car operated by Norman M. Dotson, 809 Louises St. Dotson told police he swerved to the right in an attempt to avoid the West Virginia car but hit the left rear side.

Mr. Lyle was thrown from the car by the impact and Mrs. Lyle jumped out when the car headed down Lisbon St. It swerved back and forth, hitting two parked cars and finally halted against a retaining wall.

Services for Mr. Lyle will be held Friday at 3 p. m. at the Chester Arner Chapel by Elder Emerson Booth, presiding minister of the East Liverpool Jehovah's Witnesses. Burial will be in Columbiana County Memorial Park.

He was born in Glenconnel, Pa., Feb. 10, 1887, son of the late Nathan Lyle and Kathryn Krise Lyle. He resided in the vicinity for 32 years and retired in 1959 from the Taylor Smith & Taylor Co., where he worked as a kilnfireman. He was a member of IBOP Local 141.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Kathryn Edmiston Lyle; four sons, Clair Lyle of Moundsville, Paul Lyle of Aliquippa, Graven Lyle of Chester and Donald Lyle of East Liverpool; two daughters, Mrs. Burdise Graham of East Liverpool and Mrs. Velma Baxter of Chester; two brothers, Porter Lyle of Duncansville, Pa., and David Lyle of Clymer, Pa., and nine grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Friends may call at the chapel tonight and Thursday.

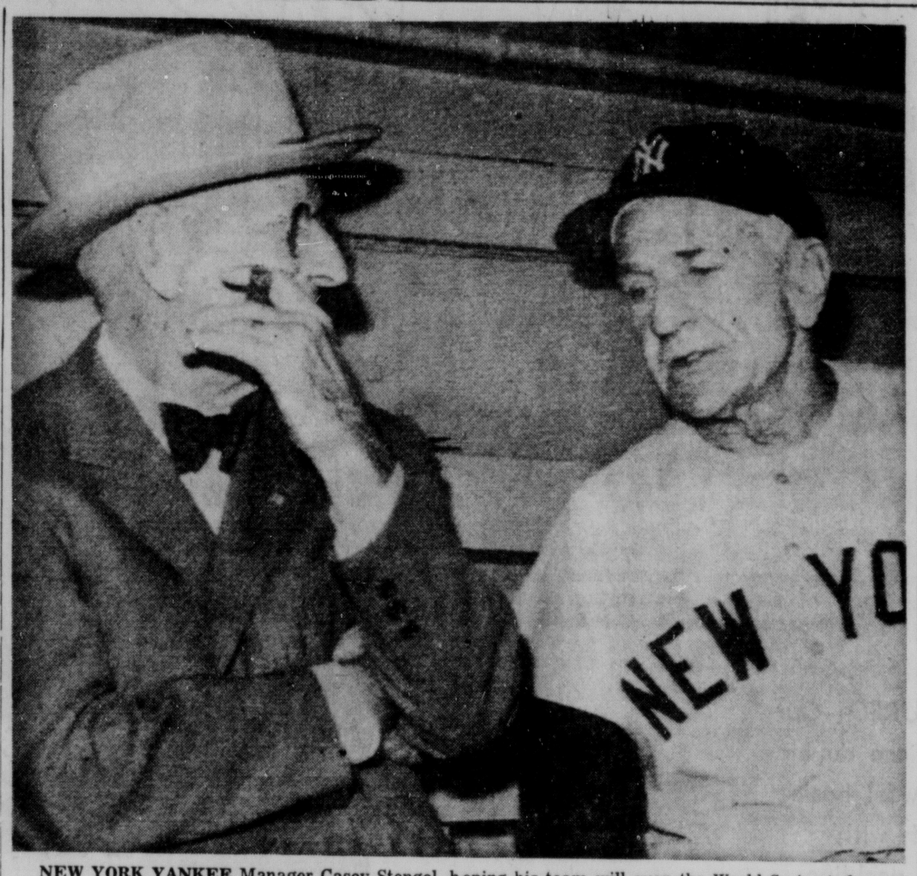

Services for Mr. Stephens, who was known by his friends as "June Bug," will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Haugh Funeral Home in Wellsville by the Rev. George H. Johnston, pastor of the Anderson Methodist Church of East Liverpool. Burial will be in Hammondsville Cemetery.

He was the son of Williard Stephens of Columbus and Mrs. Minnie Emler of East Liverpool, and was born Nov. 5, 1929, at Irondale.

He was employed in the Cold Strip Department of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. and was a member of Steelworkers Local 1212. He was a former member of Hammondsville Methodist Church. He served two years with the Air Force.

Besides his parents, he leaves his widow, Mrs. Esther Lou Stephens, a daughter, Toby Stephens,

Nixon Injects Quemoy Into Election Race

GOP Nominee Says Kennedy Wrong On Giving Up Islands

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is back in his home territory today, confident he now has an issue that will help push him into the White House.

Nixon will spend 3½ days in his native California, and it's almost certain that in each speech he will insist he is right — and Sen. John F. Kennedy, his Democratic foe, is wrong — about policy for Quemoy and Matsu.

Thursday comes the third round of the big television debate between Nixon and Kennedy.

Nixon has gone halfway around the world to latch onto his issue, two tiny islands, off the coast of China. He is sure to hammer away at this two-point theme:

1. That Quemoy and Matsu should be defended.

2. That Kennedy is wrong—and engaging in "naive and woolly" thinking that could lead to war—when he says the defense line should be pulled back to the sea between Formosa and the China mainland.

Possibly the best clue to Nixon's thinking came in his reply to Kennedy's suggestion for a fifth television debate.

Why not set back the debate on foreign policy, now booked for Oct. 21, a few days and expand it two hours?

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary, said Tuesday night the campaign seems to be settling down to international issues, and two hours would provide plenty of time to explore them. Klein smiled when he said it.

Another Nixon proposal: That the two vice presidential candidates, Henry Cabot Lodge and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, be given the Oct. 21 spot.

There's no doubt that Nixon thinks he has something hot in Quemoy and Matsu.

He hit hard at Kennedy in speeches Tuesday in San Diego before more than 10,000 roaring partisans in the ball park, and in Albuquerque, N.M., where 6,000 heard him.

"You'll be hearing a lot about them (Quemoy and Matsu) in the next few weeks and months because they have become a symbol, a major issue, in the presidential campaign," Nixon said.

Lausche Backs Policy Of Defending Quemoy

CLEVELAND (AP)—Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, says the surrender of Quemoy and Matsu "would be a serious mistake and an act of weak appeasement."

The former Ohio governor took issue with Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, in volunteering a statement on Quemoy-Matsu Tuesday night to the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Lausche also is a member of the committee.

The dispute stemmed from the nationally televised debate between presidential candidates Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy last Friday night in Washington.

Kennedy, the Democratic candidate, said the two small islands off the coast of China are useless militarily and probably hard to defend and that no defense line should be drawn there. His argu-

Friend Seeks To Give Bucs Championship

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Hurler Bob Friend, an 18-game winner during the regular season, hoped to pitch the Pittsburgh Pirates to their first world championship in 35 years by beating the New York Yankees today in the sixth game of the World Series.

Down 3-2 in the best-of-7 games series, the Yankees pinned their hopes on the veteran Whitey Ford, the southpaw who shut out the Bucs with four hits in the third game last Saturday.

If the Yankees win, and they are favored at 6-5 by the oddsmakers, the seventh and deciding game will be played Thursday with Vernon Law of the Bucs and rookie Bill Stafford of the Yankees likely starters.

A capacity turnout of 37,000 was expected at Forbes Field to root for the Bucs to make it three straight.

The Bucs won the first game 6-4, but most fans wrote them off after the Yankees won the next two by one-sided scores 16-3 and 10-0. The Bucs bounced back on Sunday 3-2 to square the series and won again on Monday 5-2.

Mostly sunny and mild weather was on tap for the game. A high temperature of 76 was predicted.

Work On New School Starts

Ground Broken For Building At Empire

A Salem construction firm has broken ground on the riverfront at Empire for the new Edison Elementary School in the Stanton Local District.

The 10-classroom building to serve elementary students from Port Homer, Stratton and Empire will be an all-electric school — one of the few of its type in Ohio.

Besides the classrooms, it will contain a multi-purpose room — auditorium and gymnasium combined — cafeteria, music room, restrooms, showers and offices.

The contractor, Bricker & Bricker, has estimated completion Aug. 1, 1961, according to Stanton Local officials.

Meanwhile, Stanton officials are continuing to work on plans for a new $1½ million high school plant to be erected in Hammondsville. Stanton voters approved a bond issue for the project last spring.

Funds for construction of the Edison Elementary School came with the passage June 2, 1959, of a $498,000 bond issue which also included funds for construction of new toilets replacing outside toilets at the Hammondsville elementary school. The new toilet facilities are in use, school officials said.

Robert F. Beatty of East Liverpool is architect for the new high school plant to be built on a level section of ground along Route 213 in Hammondsville.

Kennedy Hits Anti-Business Myth Of Party

Nominee Declares Democrats Helped Business, Industry

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy said today the assumption of an inevitable conflict between the Democratic party and businessmen "is one of the great political myths of our time."

"The business community has well served the Democratic party —and I believe the Democratic party has well served the business community," said the Democratic presidential nominee in a speech prepared for the Association of Business Publications.

Kennedy said his party has benefited business by such things as creating the federal reserve system as the basis of the nation's currency and banking system, by controlling securities speculation, and by raising purchasing power of farmers and workers.

He assured the association that, while as president he would not conduct a businessmen's administration, "neither will it be a labor administration or a farmers' administration."

"It will be an administration representing, and seeking to serve, all Americans," he said.

The Massachusetts senator scheduled a busy program in the metropolitan area today, with a dozen appearances at a wide range of events.

This was Kennedy's third swing into New York with its big prize of 45 electoral votes. His tentative schedule calls for three more visits.

A pattern of heavy concentration on the big industrial states of the Northeast is clearly emerging in the senator's campaign.

He already has been in Ohio four times and will go back there twice more. Other states to get much attention are Pennsylvania, Michigan and Illinois.

Russians 'Steamrollered'

Red Premier Risks Another U.N. Defeat On Aggression Vote

Mr. K Angry After Double U.N. Losses

Soviet To Try Old Line On American 'Aggressive' Acts

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Premier Khrushchev, set back by a steamroller vote in the United Nations on disarmament, risked another defeat today on his cherished charge of "American aggressive actions."

The Soviet chief appeared to be gripped by an almost apoplectic fury when the disarmament vote went heavily against him. He openly talked of rockets and war.

Time is running out for him — unless he changes his mind about flying back to Moscow Thursday night.

He has been beaten down repeatedly in the General Assembly, the latest setback coming Tuesday night in spite of a raging, threatening speech demanding that disarmament be debated at once by the Assembly without preliminary committee consideration.

The 99-nation assembly voted 54-13 with 31 abstentions against Khrushchev's demand. Then it voted 61-12 with 24 abstentions to debate the issue in the Political Committee. Voting with the Soviet bloc on the first question were Afghanistan, Mali and fellow-traveling Guinea and Cuba. Afghanistan abstained on the second vote.

Today the Assembly discussed Soviet demands to bypass committee consideration of two more Soviet resolutions. The U.N. Steering Committee has recommended that both be debated by the Political Committee before they come to the assembly.

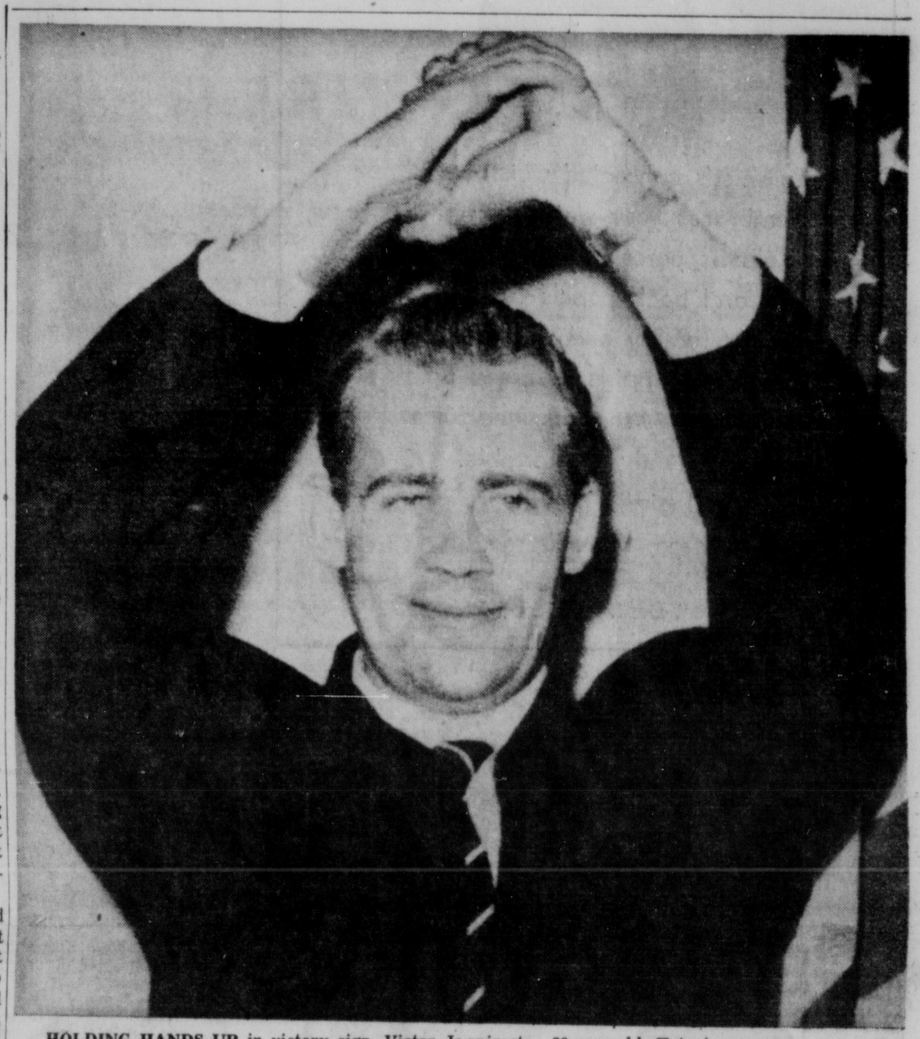

One resolution charges the United States with aggressive actions against the Soviet Union, menacing world peace. It is based on the American U2 plane shot down over Soviet territory and the RB47 shot down off the north coast of the Soviet Union.

The other calls for a declaration by the assembly that all "colonial countries and peoples" should be granted independence immediately. In an earlier speech Khrushchev said all peoples should have immediate freedom regardless of whether they are ready for it.

Khrushchev claimed the assembly rostrum twice during Tuesday's debate on where disarmament should be debated first.

His first statement was quiet and reasoned. As expected, he urged a special summit session of the Assembly be convened, somewhere in Europe and early

Student Kills Jap Socialist Party Leader

Fanatic, 17, Stabs Asanuma, Friend Of Communist Chinese

TOKYO (AP)—A fanatic right-wing student today assassinated the Socialist party chairman, Inejiro Asanuma, an avowed friend of Communist China and the militant leader of Japanese opposition to the U. S.-Japan alliance.

The assassin, a slender Otaya Yamaguchi, 17, stabbed Asanuma twice with a foot-long sword as Asanuma spoke to a political forum on clean campaign practices. Members of the audience hurled the youth to the floor and carried him off to police headquarters.

A leftist throng of 10,000 marched on police headquarters and then on the official residence of Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda, demanding Ikeda's resignation. They shouted "Down with terrorism."

A few of the marchers broke windows in an ineffectual attempt to break into police headquarters but otherwise there was no violence. The demonstrators began to disperse after a Cabinet official received leaders of the leftist labor federation Sohyo and told them the government would proceed with firmness.

Police reported that the young killer confessed he had plotted the assassination for the past three days and said he had no accomplice. Police said he told them Asanuma was a traitor who was trying to sell Japan to the Communists.

Asanuma was hurried to a hospital where he died of two chest wounds, one of them close to the heart.

The assassin was a former member of the ultranationalist Greater Japan Patriotic Society.

Sailor Defies Soviet Urging Return Home

NEW YORK (AP)—The young Estonian sailor who fled Soviet Premier Khrushchev's own ship has defied Soviet diplomats who urged him to return.

Victor Jaanimets, 29, described the dramatic confrontation at immigration headquarters Tuesday.

"At first I refused to see them, but inasmuch as they requested once more to see me I said I would talk to them," he said.

"Both of them asked me whether I was forced to make my decision. I told them, 'No. Nobody forced me. I made my decision a long time ago.'

"They said, 'So in other words this is your will, your wish.' They said every Soviet citizen has the right to decide where he will live. And I told them, 'Your remark doesn't reflect the truth. It is a lie.' "

The Soviet officials were Victor Ozipov, second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, and Valeri Kravchenko, an embassy attache.

The slim, light-haired seaman slipped away from a five-man shore party during a shopping and sightseeing expedition in Manhattan Monday afternoon. After calling Estonia refugee groups, he was taken to the immigration office.

An Immigration Service official said Jaanimets would remain in custody while "a few matters are being checked."

Air Force Hunts Cause Of 'Spy' Rocket Failure

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP) —The United States' first spy-in-the-sky rocket failed to orbit—for reasons being sought today by Air Force scientists with only meager clues.

Project officials announced that the first in the series of Samos satellites radioed back a few messages of its performance Tuesday, then disappeared.

It was to be the forerunner of satellites equipped with scanning gear so sensitive they are expected to take pictures or TV shots better than photos made from the U2 reconnaissance plane.

Uprising Due On Lumumba, Congo Warns

Troops Threatening Trouble Should U.N. Retain Ex-Premier

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Opposing troops with machineguns faced each other around the home of Patrice Lumumba today as the Congo's ruling government commission threatened an army uprising unless U.N. forces hand over the deposed premier.

Machinegunners of Ghana's U.N. contingent mounted a protective guard around the controversial ex-premier and prevented the execution of the arrest warrant for Lumumba signed by President Joseph Kasavubu.

Congo army troops formed an outer cordon around Lumumba's residence, keeping him a prisoner inside while the government commission and the U.N. Command wrangled over his fate.

Justin Bomboko, head of the commission appointed by army chief Col. Joseph Mobutu, renewed demands upon the U. N. Command Tuesday night for permission to serve an arrest warrant and said Congolese troops intended to take Lumumba into custody.

Any U.N. interference, he said, would set off an army uprising throughout the Congo, and this "could start a war in the Congo and a world war."

But he did not set a deadline for Lumumba's surrender. He said he was waiting for further word from U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

The U.N. Command declined to deliver Lumumba on the grounds that under the Congo's temporary constitution, Parliament must approve the arrest of one of its members.

Discussion Or Decision?

West, Communists Differ On True Purposes Of U.N.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Premier Khrushchev's words and attitudes during his visit to the U.N. General Assembly illuminate a basic obstacle in the path toward real peace. The Communists and Western parliamentary democracies are worlds apart in their conceptions of what the United Nations should be.

Khrushchev told the assembly Tuesday the United Nations was created for the discussion of disputes and for "solving important problems of ensuring peace."

The Soviet view apparently is this: That the United Nations can discuss and can agree, but it cannot either police or enforce agreements.

When the United Nations first came into being, Western leaders viewed it as a step toward the old dream of a parliament of man that would forever outlaw war and mass bloodshed.

Thus, the West—and particularly the English-speaking peoples—regards the United Nations as a sort of parliament whose decisions have the force of authority.

But there are no parliaments in the Communist world. Those bodies which are called parliaments can do nothing but talk, discuss and agree. Decisions are reached at the higher government levels.

How does Khrushchev view the United Nations then? He told a meeting of U.N. correspondents Friday: "This is not a parliament. It is a forum in which questions should be resolved, but in such a way as not to endanger the interests of even a single state among those that make up this forum."

The rule of the majority, which is the foundation of Western Parliamentary democracies, is a puzzle to the Russians, who have had no experience with it. Theirs is strictly a rule of the minority.

Soviet To Try Old Line On American 'Aggressive' Acts

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Premier Khrushchev, set back by a steamroller vote in the United Nations on disarmament, risked another defeat today on his cherished charge of "American aggressive actions."

The Soviet chief appeared to be gripped by an almost apoplectic fury when the disarmament vote went heavily against him. He openly talked of rockets and war.

Time is running out for him — unless he changes his mind about flying back to Moscow Thursday night.

He has been beaten down repeatedly in the General Assembly, the latest setback coming Tuesday night in spite of a raging, threatening speech demanding that disarmament be debated at once by the Assembly without preliminary committee consideration.

The 99-nation assembly voted 54-13 with 31 abstentions against Khrushchev's demand. Then it voted 61-12 with 24 abstentions to debate the issue in the Political Committee. Voting with the Soviet bloc on the first question were Afghanistan, Mali and fellow-traveling Guinea and Cuba. Afghanistan abstained on the second vote.

Today the Assembly discussed Soviet demands to bypass committee consideration of two more Soviet resolutions. The U.N. Steering Committee has recommended that both be debated by the Political Committee before they come to the assembly.

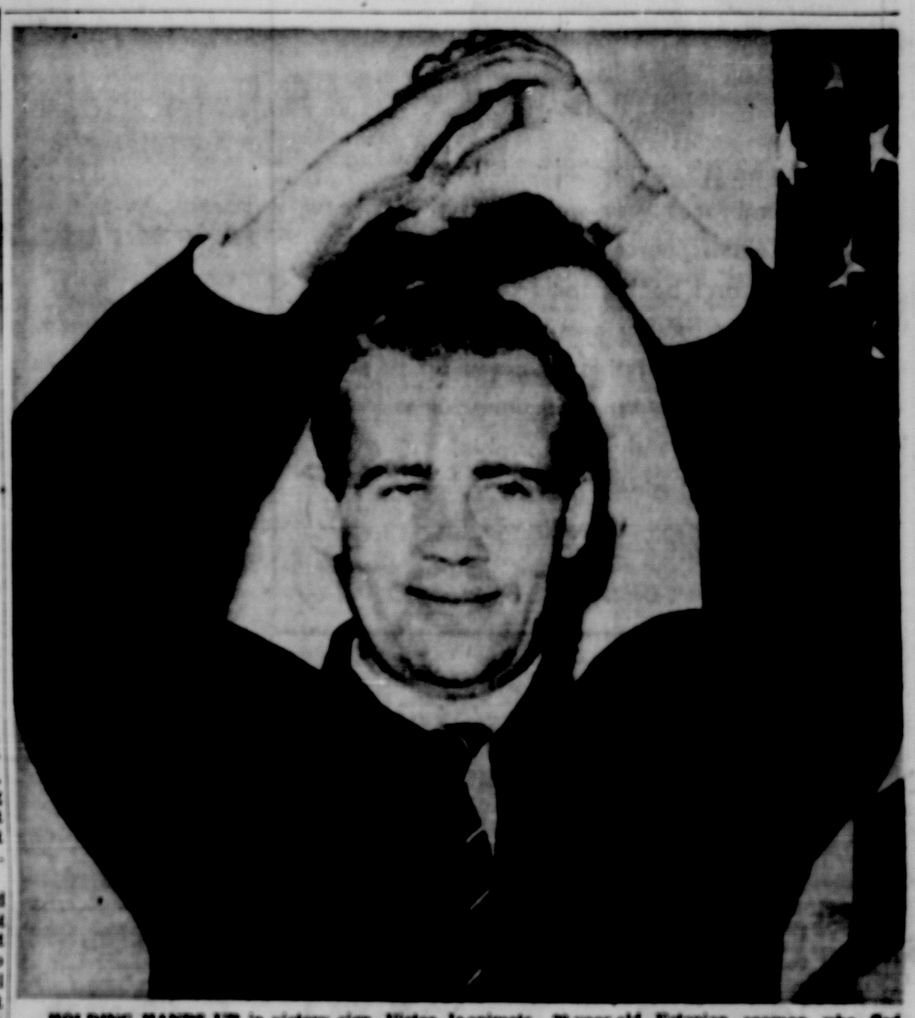

One resolution charges the United States with aggressive actions against the Soviet Union, menacing world peace. It is based on the American U2 plane shot down over Soviet territory and the RB47 shot down off the north coast of the Soviet Union.

The other calls for a declaration by the assembly that all "colonial countries and peoples" should be granted independence immediately. In an earlier speech, Khrushchev said all peoples should have immediate freedom, regardless of whether they are ready for it.

Khrushchev claimed the assembly rostrum twice during Tuesday's debate on where disarmament should be debated first.

His first statement was quiet and reasoned. As expected, he urged a special summit session of the Assembly be convened, somewhere in Europe and early

Student Kills Jap Socialist Party Leader

Fanatic, 17, Stabs Asanuma, Friend Of Communist Chinese

TOKYO (AP)—A fanatic right-wing student today assassinated the Socialist party chairman, Inejiro Asanuma, an avowed friend of Communist China and the militant leader of Japanese opposition to the U. S.-Japan alliance.

The assassin, a slender Otaya Yamaguchi, 17, stabbed Asanuma twice with a foot-long sword as Asanuma spoke to a political forum on clean campaign practices. Members of the audience hurled the youth to the floor and carried him off to police headquarters.

A leftist throng of 10,000 marched on police headquarters and then on the official residence of Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda, demanding Ikeda's resignation. They shouted "Down with terrorism."

A few of the marchers broke windows in an ineffectual attempt to break into police headquarters but otherwise there was no violence. The demonstrators began to disperse after a Cabinet official received leaders of the leftist labor federation Sohyo and told them the government would proceed with firmness.

Police reported that the young killer confessed he had plotted the assassination for the past three days and said he had no accomplice. Police said he told them Asanuma was a traitor who was trying to sell Japan to the Communists.

Asanuma was hurried to a hospital where he died of two chest wounds, one of them close to the heart.

The assassin was a former member of the ultranationalist Greater Japan Patriotic Society.

Sailor Defies Soviet Urging Return Home

NEW YORK (AP)—The young Estonian sailor who fled Soviet Premier Khrushchev's own ship has defied Soviet diplomats who urged him to return.

Victor Jaanimets, 29, described the dramatic confrontation at immigration headquarters Tuesday.

"At first I refused to see them, but inasmuch as they requested once more to see me I said I would talk to them," he said.

"Both of them asked me whether I was forced to make my decision. I told them, 'No. Nobody forced me. I made my decision a long time ago.'

"They said, 'So in other words this is your will, your wish.' They said every Soviet citizen has the right to decide where he will live. And I told them, 'Your remark doesn't reflect the truth. It is a lie.'"

The Soviet officials were Victor Osipov, second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, and Valeri Kravchenko, an embassy attache.

The slim, light-haired seaman slipped away from a five-man shore party during a shopping and sightseeing expedition in Manhattan Monday afternoon. After calling Estonia refugee groups, he was taken to the immigration office.

An Immigration Service official said Jaanimets would remain in custody while "a few matters are being checked."

Air Force Hunts Cause Of 'Spy' Rocket Failure

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP) —The United States' first spy-in-the-sky rocket failed to orbit—for reasons being sought today by Air Force scientists with only meager clues.

Project officials announced that the first in the series of Samos satellites radioed back a few messages of its performance Tuesday, then disappeared.

It was to be the forerunner of satellites equipped with scanning gear so sensitive they are expected to take pictures or TV shots better than photos made from the U2 reconnaissance plane.

Uprising Due On Lumumba, Congo Warns

Troops Threatening Trouble Should U.N. Retain Ex-Premier

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Opposing troops with machineguns faced each other around the home of Patrice Lumumba today as the Congo's ruling government commission threatened an army uprising unless U.N. forces hand over the deposed premier.

Machinegunners of Ghana's U.N. contingent mounted a protective guard around the controversial ex-premier and prevented the execution of the arrest warrant for Lumumba signed by President Joseph Kasavubu.

Congo army troops formed an outer cordon around Lumumba's residence, keeping him a prisoner inside while the government commission and the U.N. Command wrangled over his fate.

Justin Bomboko, head of the commission appointed by army chief Col. Joseph Mobutu, renewed demands upon the U. N. Command Tuesday night for permission to serve an arrest warrant and said Congolese troops intended to take Lumumba into custody.

Any U.N. interference, he said, would set off an army uprising throughout the Congo, and this "could start a war in the Congo and a world war."

But he did not set a deadline for Lumumba's surrender. He said he was waiting for further word from U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

The U.N. Command declined to deliver Lumumba on the grounds that under the Congo's temporary constitution, Parliament must approve the arrest of one of its members.

Discussion Or Decision?

West, Communists Differ On True Purposes Of U.N.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Premier Khrushchev's words and attitudes during his visit to the U.N. General Assembly illuminate a basic obstacle in the path toward real peace. The Communists and Western parliamentary democracies are worlds apart in their conceptions of what the United Nations should be.

Khrushchev told the assembly Tuesday the United Nations was created for the discussion of disputes and for "solving important problems of ensuring peace."

The Soviet view apparently is this: That the United Nations can discuss and can agree, but it cannot either police or enforce agreements.

When the United Nations first came into being, Western leaders viewed it as a step toward the old dream of a parliament of man that would forever outlaw war and mass bloodshed.

Thus, the West—and particularly the English-speaking peoples—regards the United Nations as a sort of parliament whose decisions have the force of authority.

But there are no parliaments in the Communist world. Those bodies which are called parliaments can do nothing but talk, discuss and agree. Decisions are reached at the higher government levels.

How does Khrushchev view the United Nations then? He told a meeting of U.N. correspondents Friday: "This is not a parliament. It is a forum in which questions should be resolved, but in such a way as not to endanger the interests of even a single state among those that make up this forum."

The rule of the majority, which is the foundation of Western Parliamentary democracies, is a puzzle to the Russians, who have had no experience with it. There is strictly a rule of the minority

USO–Friend Of Those In Service

(This is the second in a series on the services of the various agencies which participate in the Community Fund Association. Each report is designed to help area residents decide for themselves just how much these agencies are worth to them.)

What is a touch of "home" worth to a serviceman or woman at an isolated military installation in a foreign land, or, in a remote area in this country?

What value can be placed on the USO program which offers members of the armed forces friendship, amusement and a feeling of acceptance. . .or help with personal problems and contact with centers of their religious faiths?

The estimated 1,600 men and women from Columbiana County now serving in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Coast Guard, Reserves and National Guard, (both in the U.S. and overseas units) are probably all familiar with the benefits of the USO program.

Wherever they go — Alaska or Guam — Illinois or Louisiana — the USO offers them facilities for reading, writing, TV, music, dancing; religious, educational and group activities; and, best of all, entertainment, right from "home".

The United Service Organizations, incorporated in 1941, is a volunteer civilian agency, combining in one program to serve the men and women of the armed services. The USO and members agencies operate 235 domestic units and 22 in overseas areas, including Alaska, Hawaii, Philippines, Canal Zone, Guam, Korea, Japan, France, Italy, Greece, Turkey and North Africa.

Member agencies cooperating and directing many USO units include those of the three major religious faiths: the Young Men's Christian Association, National Catholic Community Service, National Jewish Welfare Board, Young Women's Christian Association, Salvation Army and National Traveler's Aid Association.

What price tag can be put on the work done through such a powerful combination of friendly help for our servicemen and women?

Right now, approximately 1,450 men of 18 or over from Columbiana County alone are registered on active duty in the armed forces of the nation. What is it worth to these young neighbors or relatives to step into a USO club far from home and find friendship and entertainment?

What value can be placed on a remedy for homesickness? This year, only a "token" contribution to the USO is allocated through the Community Fund campaign. But measuring the worth of this or any of the six agencies participating in Community Fund is up to the individual reader — "What's it worth" to you?

(This is the second in a series on the services of the various agencies which participate in the Community Fund Association. Each report is designed to help area residents decide for themselves just how much these agencies are worth to them.)

What is a touch of "home" worth to a serviceman or woman at an isolated military installation in a foreign land, or, in a remote area in this country?

What value can be placed on the USO program which offers members of the armed forces friendship, amusement and a feeling of acceptance. . .or help with personal problems and contact with centers of their religious faiths?

The estimated 1,600 men and women from Columbiana County now serving in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Coast Guard, Reserves and National Guard, (both in the U.S. and overseas units) are probably all familiar with the benefits of the USO program.

Wherever they go — Alaska or Guam — Illinois or Louisiana — the USO offers them facilities for reading, writing, TV, music, dancing; religious, educational and group activities; and, best of all, entertainment, right from "home".

The United Service Organizations, incorporated in 1941, is a volunteer civilian agency, combining in one program to serve the men and women of the armed services. The USO and members agencies operate 235 domestic units and 22 in overseas areas, including Alaska, Hawaii, Philippines, Canal Zone, Guam, Korea, Japan, France, Italy, Greece, Turkey and North Africa.

Member agencies cooperating and directing many USO units include those of the three major religious faiths: the Young Men's Christian Association, National Catholic Community Service, National Jewish Welfare Board, Young Women's Christian Association, Salvation Army and National Traveler's Aid Association.

What price tag can be put on the work done through such a powerful combination of friendly help for our servicemen and women?

Right now, approximately 1,450 men of 18 or over from Columbiana County alone are registered on active duty in the armed forces of the nation. What is it worth to these young neighbors or relatives to step into a USO club far from home and find friendship and entertainment?

What value can be placed on a remedy for homesickness? This year, only a "token" contribution to the USO is allocated through the Community Fund campaign. But measuring the worth of this or any of the six agencies participating in Community Fund is up to the individual reader — "What's it worth" to you?

3 Drivers Fined; 3 Others Forfeit

LISBON — Three motorists were fined Tuesday by County Judge James L. MacDonald and three others forfeited bonds. Fined were:

Billy Echols, 33, of 726 St. Clair Ave., East Liverpool, $5 and costs for speeding.

Linda L. Kenmuir, 18, of Lisbon R. D. 5, $15 and costs, speeding.

Samuel Petrel, 40, of Columbiana R. D. 2, $20 and costs, reckless operation. Forfeiting were:

James M. Whelan, 36, of 129 W. Main St., Salineville, $20 bond for crossing the yellow line in a hazardous zone.

Walter L. Herndon, 30, of Tallmadge, $15 for speeding.

William B. Young Jr., 18, of East Palestine, $20 for failing to stop at an intersection. All were cited by the State Highway Patrol.

John Hickenbottom, 50, of Wellsville R. D. was fined $100 and costs for drunk and disorderly conduct when he pleaded guilty to the charge filed by John Critchfield. Judge MacDonald suspended $90 of the fine and he was committed to the County Jail.

Watch Your Step With The Polls

There's a gimmick in election years that takes some understanding.

It's the shaky transition from what used to be called guesswork to what now is called scientific polling.

In the old days, if a horse doctor or a ward heeler, or even a Tammany boss, wanted to go out on a limb with an election prediction, everybody wished him godspeed and figured he would come out all right in the end; the limb could be sawed off behind him.

Predicting the outcome of elections was on a par with predicting the outcome of hoss races, a sport for people who liked to live dangerously.

Then came the era of science in which we are now living—the age of certainty, according to its ardent admirers, but the age of image-making, according to some who reserve the right to withhold their admiration.

And part of the image-making, in our opinion, is the purported science of touting the U.S. electorate on political elections.

BEAR IN MIND always that the touts are not as guilty as they appear to be. All they purport to do is make an educated guess about the way the vote would be divided if the election had been held on some arbitrary date other than Election Day. They explain there is no harm in this and hasten to admit many things can happen before Election Day.

But no one is so naive as not to know that the wallop in political polls is the way they are construed by rank-and-file voters, who interpret them as actual forecasts of the election outcome.

Even if every poll were as scientific as its backers claim it is, polling still would be a headache for campaigners. It saddles them with a pseudo-scientific handicap and it complicates partisan politics tremendously—not because it's done but because it's supposed to be scientific.

Science! That's the key word in mid-century. Everything scientific! Nothing left to mere chance any more! Witchcraft is dead; long live Science!

SCIENTIFIC polling showed Thomas E. Dewey beating the spots off Harry Truman in 1948. It showed Herbert Hoover withstanding the onslaught of the Rooseveltians in that forgotten past when the Rooseveltians accused the Republicans of spending too much money.

Last year in Britain, psuedo-scientific pollsters had a high old time in territory never previously touched by their necromancy.

They had British voters hopped up to the point of believing the Labor party, which even then was in the shadows of its coming oblivion, would win the election.

A lot of Britons are still sore about the money they lost when Conservatives won the election going away, and pollsters are not in good repute in Britain.

The polling gimmick takes understanding; no doubt about it.

And particularly is it going to take understanding in the United States in 1960 in a presidential election that looks like such a squeaker it still could be a tossup on the eve of Election Day.

America votes only once—on Nov. 8.

Of all years, this is the one to be leary of polls that show Kennedy getting 83.7 per cent of the votes of girls under 21 years of age and Nixon being favored by 87.3 of former students of Whittier College.

This is the year to be leery of polls . . . period.

What Is Indefensible?

It is frightening to learn that Sen. Kennedy was not trapped into a quick answer on Quemoy and Matsu in his debate with Vice President Nixon last week.

He has repeated the position he took then: that the United States should not defend these two Nationalist Chinese islands close to the Red China shore because they are indefensible.

Talk like this simply is the bitter mistake President Truman's secretary of state, Dean Acheson, made in January 1950. Mr. Acheson drew a United States Pacific "defense line" east of Korea, and in less than six months the North Korean Communists invaded South Korea.

Mr. Acheson in effect invited the Communists to walk in and they accepted the invitations. They were the most surprised people on earth when the United Nations, at the behest of the United States, rushed to the defense of South Korea.

THE SAME THING would happen at Quemoy and Matsu. Red China would have seized them two years ago if the United States had not sounded a "no trespassing" warning by sending the 7th Fleet to protect them.

Time and time again the world has seen what the Communists will do if given carte blanche. They seized half a dozen Eastern European countries. They have attempted to stir up revolt in Far Eastern countries whose peoples were seeking to establish their own national governments. They have given active support to Castro's seizure of American businesses in Cuba. As recently as last month, after urging that the Belgians get out, they rushed in to try to take over the Congo.

The record is clear as to what the Communists would do if they were assured no one would object if they walked in on Quemoy and Matsu. They would take the islands, then work next on Nationalist China's Formosa.

OF COURSE these tiny islands are "indefensible," as Mr. Kennedy says. Of course no military commander would choose them as a battleground.

But so is Berlin. It is even more "indefensible" from a military viewpoint. So were the Philippines, Hawaii, and Alaska. Florida, Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal would be difficult to defend. But no American would think of sloughing them off.

The British Isles were "indefensible" in 1940 and 1941, but, thank God, the British defended them.

No, Mr. Kennedy, the United States cannot afford to invite the Communists to consume free people's territory. As Vice President Nixon said, they are of no importance as pieces of land. But they belong to Nationalist China, and their people do not want to be subjugated to Red China.

If we issue such an invitation—which we can be sure the Communists gratefully would accept—we had better be prepared to write off Formosa. And then the Philippines. And the rest of the Pacific.

Or we shall have to fight again to retrieve a grave diplomatic mistake.

Isolated Incident?

Pranksters have been on the prowl in the Salineville area — with the approaching Halloween season being blamed.

If Halloween is to blame, we have the feeling that it will prove somewhat of an isolated incident in view of the decreasing vandalism over the last few years.

There have been thoughtless pranks to be sure, but to the credit of the youngsters it must be conceded that they have been accepting Halloween more and more as a season of frolic and trick or treat rather than a time of senseless destruction.

And this is not the time to begin swinging back in the other direction. The pranks of yesteryear should remain topics of Halloween conversation for the old-timers and not serve as examples for youngsters to follow.

The street dances and other events which have won so much favor should remain the theme of this year's observance. Halloween should be remembered as a time of fun and carefree activity, not one of vicious and costly vandalism.

Let's hope incidents such as that at Salineville prove few and far between.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Second debate between Dick and Jack was so much better than first one that descendants of Lincoln and Douglas won't sue both. This time they could be identified as competitors without a program.

There is still no need for someone to count at the knockdowns but the debate no longer resembled a meeting of tranquilizer salesmen in an ice house.

Some poll takers report fewer listeners. This indicates both boys have lost ground to Ingrid Bergman in 1950 movie "Stromboli," "Mike Wallace," "Night Court" and "U.S. Border Patrol," rival TV shows during same period.

Realizing that TV thrillers are few without brass knuckles, sixguns, and one opponent knocking another over a sofa and stomping on his face, Dick and Jack reached for roughage areas by leaping into Cuban and Formosa combat.

Kennedy dragged in Castro with charge Nixon was responsible for all Cuban troubles, the permit for Castro to grow a beard and the litter of chicken feathers in a Manhattan hotel.

Nevertheless the program lacked wall-to-wall violence with neither blaming the other for Cyrus Eaton luncheons and Chief Justice Warren's presence at Toots Shor's saloon ground breaking.

Jack also dragged McKinley, Harding and Coolidge into the act, proving ability to go deeper into outfield than Dick.

New scenic effects were warmer and neither candidate looked as if made-up for college presentation of "Charlie's Aunt."

Brain squads of TV switched to lecterns which hid legs and feet of both men, leaving unsettled the great question whether either could be the first bowleggd man to enter the White House.

They also showed quizzers front and rear, giving them one-minute head-on and two minutes from the stern.

Kennedy has developed a "let-me-at-him" look suggesting "Danger. Explosives Within" sign. He has killed the "too young" critics by seeming to have aged 10 years in the last 10,000 miles.

A GRAND JURY has returned second degree perjury charges against 20 TV quiz show scandal participants. Second degree perjury means the jury wasn't sure of the right answer to "what is first degree perjury?"

Nehru went to the world series game, but did not offer a resolution urging that, with bases full, the umpires should call in the neutrals. There were moments when he seemed to weaken in non-violence stand.

Joseph N. Welch, who died the other day, was a figure out of the age of homespun, simple - living, plain spoken non - grandstand playing Americans who thought and talked straight, scorning histrionics.

It was ironical that, lacking showmanship, he became a star in show business, frequently in demand for movies and TV.

A country boy out of a town called Primgha, Iowa, he was a lawyer in Walpole, Mass., when fate drew him into the McCarthy-Army TV probe.

He was the most unknown man in the case, yet wound up as its best remembered.

Drastic Sort Of An Eye Opener

The GE Strike Through Ohioans' Eyes

By Victor Riesel

This final conflict between the influential leaders of the national labor movement will become a major presidential issue whether the candidates like it or not.

Victor Riesel

This I discovered when, in the fashion of the times and the mood of the moment, I went to a neutral in the counterpart of Middletown, U.S.A. Specifically it was Bucyrus, O.

The neutral, interested only in law and order, was Capt. Spaeth of the local police force. He had been observing the industrial war sweeping his 10,000-population city as it has other communities through which I've traveled from the Boston area to Texas.

Laconically, Capt. Spaeth and one or two associated with the local educational system spoke of the "milling and shoving, hat-pin wielding and kicking in of cars" by pickets in front of the smallest of GE plants.

It is a one-story plant right near the school in a workingman's residential area. It is a lamp (electric bulb) division. Company figures put the production workers' employment at 250, 80 per cent of them women.

MONDAY MORNING, a day after the official strike call, they came to work. There was some pushing. Tuesday the pickets massed. They had come in from nearby plants. It got real rough, was the neutral observation.

Cars were kicked in. Windows were smashed. Rocks were thrown. Pickets strung cars for a quarter of a mile down the road.

A non-striking male employe, Tom Seis, got his head pummeled amid the outcries of parents escorting their youngsters to school. Real life classes were outdoors that morning.

There were arrests of pickets for malicious destruction of property. Some workers in the plant wanted to leave for home Wednesday night.

The police chief called in union leaders and got safe conduct through the lines. It did the labor movement and its champions no good in Bucyrus.

Nor has the abandoning of locked cars to block roadways or the forcing of city emergencies elsewhere aided the cause of the Electrical Workers, whose national leader is James B. Carey, an AFL-CIO vice president and a member of its eight-man national executive committee.

MY NEXT CALL was to the GE executive offices. Speaking in the name of the company, Philip Moore, chief negotiator, whose title is manager, employe relations Service, said:

"We did not call the strike. It was imposed on us by James B. Carey. Every employe has the right to strike. Every employe equally has the right not to strike.

"We have an obligation to provide jobs wherever we can for those who are willing and able to work. We cannot allow the forces of lawlessness to sway us from trying to discharge this obligation.

"In the future, as in the past, we will continue to do our best to keep our plants open to employes who want to work."

This then is the issue, it seems to me, far more than even the official demands and the company offer.

The company's insistence on its right to keep its plants going regardless of picket lines on a national level is precedent shattering in our times.

Furthermore, GE is pulling no punches when it comes to showdowns with the law enforcement people. It already is charging that in some areas the police are "politically unwilling" to protect the plants and help keep them open.

FROM THE UNION the word is that GE is trying to smash the labor movement by first cracking the striking union.

Carey is saying that GE is "willing to indict any segment of our society which does not see eye to eye with their antediluvian philosophies."

He now is raising financial and moral help. There is a million strike fund available in labor's Industrial Union Dept. From Walter Reuther's auto union and Dave McDonald's steelworkers probably will come another $2 million. In the end the total will hit $10 million, it is believed.

In Pittsburgh, Carey's union is deadlocked with Westinghouse. There the contract expires later this month. In Buffalo, leaders of unions at the Sylvania Electric Products negotiations, speaking for workers in plants from Massachusetts to California, rejected a company offer.

Soon the bulk of the electrical industry may be tied up—right at the height of the presidential campaign.

And in communities such as Bucyrus, the nearby shouts of the pickets will be heard above the policy speeches of the campaigners.

Abnormal Khrushchev

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Premier Khrushchev's actions—by all the orderly standards of the United Nations—have been abnormal. It seems fair now to ask: How much balance does he have?

For 22 days in this country, instead of appealing to reason and fairness, Khrushchev has tried repeatedly to obtain what he wants by threats. Whether or not his fits of anger are real or for effect, his purpose has been to intimidate.

One after another his proposals have been frustrated. Each frustration seems to have driven him to a new excess.

He could have presented his ideas in one well-arranged package. Instead, he seems to have improvised, thinking up new extremes as he went along.

If he follows through on some of his threats, then his main accomplishment in visiting the United Nations has been to wreck it.

He said he wanted disarmament. But he also said he wanted Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold thrown out and replaced by a three-man secretariat, one representing communism, one the West, and one the neutrals.

Then he coupled disarmament with Hammarskjold. Khrushchev said that if he didn't get the three-man secretariat, then there could be no disarmament.

Even the dullest U. N. delegate could see what Khrushchev wanted was not really a three-man, balanced secretariat but a hunting license.

If Russia tried an adventure anywhere in the world and the three secretaries sat down to discuss action to stop it, the secretary representing communism could prevent with a veto anything the other two secretaries wanted to do.

As time passed and Khrushchev saw he was making no progress on this, he went much further than just saying there could be no disarmament unless he got his three-man secretariat.

He said that unless he got it—even though every other nation voted against him—"we shall uphold our interests outside this international body, outside the U.N. by relying on our own strength."

What are Russia's "interests"? They could be anything Khrushchev wanted them to be. This threat, if carried out, will in effect wreck the United Nations, leaving it a kind of shadow organization.

It is not only his continuing threats but also his seeming obsession with the idea of war, destruction and death which seems peculiarly abnormal. He never stops talking about it, linking it obliquely with his threats.

He has lost at every turn, on everything he wanted at the United Nations. Now the world has to wait to see whether he makes good on his threats.

Kennedy Off Base

By David Lawrence

Salem Speech Of Candidate Questioned

Unless Sen. Kennedy repudiates the speech he made at Salem, Ohio, over the weekend, he may, if elected president of the United States, find that he has embarrassed his own government.

David Lawrence

For Mr. Kennedy took the position that, when a country "abstains" from voting on an issue in the United Nations General Assembly, it is "against" the proposition under consideration. He said:

"Out of the 24 nations on the newest continent (Africa), 22 were against us."

But 14 of these 22 votes, it so happened, were from countries that had "abstained" from taking a position either way on the pending motion to start debate on the admission of Red China.

Since when is a member of any organization governed by parliamentary rules — including the United States Senate—to be regarded as voting "against" when the record is "present but not voting"?

Looking over the full list of 22 countries that "abstained," it will be noted that Israel and Portugal, for instance, were among them.

Can it be said that Israel has deserted the United States and favors the position of the Soviet Union just because of a declination to vote for or against this resolution?

THE RECORD since 1952 shows that the United States has mustered between 42 and 47 votes each year against debate on a resolution to admit Red China to the U.N.

This year the vote in support of the United States position was 42, which is exactly what it was in 1952 at the height of the Korean War, when Red China was fighting the United Nations armies.

Can it be said that the position of the United States, therefore, on this particular motion has really weakened, as Sen. Kennedy claims?

The fact of the matter is that a two - thirds majority would be needed to seat Red China in the General Assembly—or at least 66 votes out of the present U.N. membership of 98.

This means that, for Red China to become a member of the assembly, 32 votes would be needed in addition to the 34 votes this year in favor of debating the question.

So all of the 22 abstentions plus at least 10 of those countries now standing with the United States would have to be obtained by the Red China supporters.

This is so improbable that it gives a clue as to why 22 members abstained from voting last Friday on the United States resolution not to take up the question of admitting Red China.

THEY KNEW the resolution would win anyway and they could gain a little neutrality mileage for themselves by "abstaining."

Many a so-called "neutral" finds it desirable now and then not to offend the Communist bloc, especially when on the opposite side no offense is felt by the United States against the member countries that abstain from voting.

When is Sen. Kennedy going to come to grips with the real problem that will confront the United States. The question of whether the assembly without being ad-not debate the admission of Red China is a relatively minor one.

After there is a vote to begin debate, another vote has to be taken and a two-thirds majority recorded before Red China is admitted to the General Assembly.

Even then, it would be possible for Red China to be a member of the assembly without being admitted to the Security Council, in which the United States has a veto.

Mr. Lodge already has stated that such a veto would be exercised in the Security Council.

Nationalist China could, therefore, remain in the Security Council while Red China held China's seat in the General Assembly.

The question is one that really involves the right of both bodies to pass on the credentials of factions within a given country.

IT WOULD BE a sad day for the Soviet Union if it took the position that the assembly may pass judgment on whether a particular government is representative of its people.

Thus, the recognition of governments-in-exile has been aclaw and it might be that there will arise governments-in-exile to challenge the right of the present representatives of Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Albania, Bulgaria, the Ukraine and Romania to sit in the United Nations General Assembly.

There's a long and tempestuous course ahead for Red China, and those who are predicting "eventual" admission—as are Mr. Nehru and Sen. Morse—are forgetting the barriers that lie ahead.

What's more important to the American people at the moment is whether Mr. Kennedy, as president, would instruct the American representative in the United Nations to vote against the admission of Red China or to "abstain."

This is the real issue and a pledge on this is essential to an understanding of whether, under a Democratic administration, the trend is going to be toward favoring Communist China to the discouragement of the million or more troops in South Korea, Formosa and the Philippines who now are protecting our military position in the Far East.

Sea Farming

Wanted: an easy way to farm the sea. Water covers nearly three-fourths of the earth's surface, forming a life-filled reservoir of more than 300 million cubic miles. Its exploration has hardly begun. Man gets only a trickle of its rich resources of food.

Armed even with electronic aids, fishermen pull in no more than a fraction of the fish needed each year to meet the hungry world's protein requirements.

Sea farming itself has not yet passed the primitive stage of development. As an industry, this involves cultivation, controlled cropping and conservation.

The art of farming the sea perhaps has reached its most advanced form in oyster culture. In the 20th century, thousands of acres of barren sea bottom, particularly off New England coasts, have been turned into fertile oyster farms. The highly-specialized business requires the transplanting of the young several times before they reach market size, thus the succulent oyster remains a luxury food.

The artificial colonization of marine life has been achieved—to a limited extent.

Put It In Writing

By Truman Twill

On this day I made one of the rare speeches I occasionally get conned into making, and it stirred afresh all my doubts about this folkway.

Everybody concerned would have been better off in the long run if I had remained seated while the chairman passed out to the members printed copies of what I had prepared for the occasion.

The listeners then could have gone to their comfortable homes and exercised the option to throw their copy away or glance over it to see if they were interested.

The more I hear, the more certain I am that the only sound use for public speaking is exhortation. The medium is misused for all other purposes, except humor.

I would walk three miles in the rain to hear a genuinely funny man do his stuff on a speaker's platform. I would walk five miles to hear a spellbinder put on his act. But for all other speeches, I wouldn't stir out of my chair. These are the ones that should be put into print and passed out for whatever ultimate disposal seemed suitable.

One other kind of speechmaking fascinates me — the pitchman's spiel. Every time I look for a can opener in the kitchen, I run across a dingus that was so ably pitched by a spieler at the county fair that I paid a dollar for it.

In actual truth, I paid the dollar for the spiel. We already had half a dozen other useless gadgets at home that had been bought under the same circumstances.

Years have passed since I bought the last one, and I have yet to discover in my own hands any of the marvelous uses the spieler demonstrated before my eyes. That, however, isn't public speaking. It's salesmanship.

Another season of public speaking now is breaking over the land, paced by the 1960 political candidates. By the time they're through, our ears will be sagging and our willingness to listen will be paralyzed. But public speakers will drone on, unheard and unhinged.

The shrewdest thing they could do — if they dared — would be to acknowledge this by refusing to indulge in any more harangue. One day, a seeker of high office in this country will hire a team of gagmen from show business and turn himself into an out-and-out entertainer. He will win.

This has been done successfully by some of the small fry in office-seeking. It works. People come to see them and to be entertained, and they go away satisfied.

There should be no neglect of serious things. But they should be terded to through the printed word. I find myself unable to grasp the intricacies of deep-dish speechmaking when momentous issues are under discussion. I don't really know what was said until I read a text.

There is nothing peculiar about my inability to stay on the track. When other people try to tell me "what the man said," once I have examined the text of what he really said, they make only wild and weird approximations of what he actually said.

But the folkway hangs on and on and on. Speeches must be made, and people must listen. Chairs are hard and spoken words are inadequate.

Put it in writing and let the victims go home early.

According to the Book of Deuteronomy, in the Bible, a man should take a year's vacation when he marries. The fifth Verse of Chapter 24 states: "When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any business, but he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken."

Watch Your Step With The Polls

There's a gimmick in election years that takes some understanding.

It's the shaky transition from what used to be called guesswork to what now is called scientific polling.

In the old days, if a horse doctor or a ward heeler, or even a Tammany boss, wanted to go out on a limb with an election prediction, everybody wished him godspeed and figured he would come out all right in the end; the limb could be sawed off behind him.

Predicting the outcome of elections was on a par with predicting the outcome of hoss races, a sport for people who liked to live dangerously.

Then came the era of science in which we are now living—the age of certainty, according to its ardent admirers, but the age of image-making, according to some who reserve the right to withhold their admiration.

And part of the image-making, in our opinion, is the purported science of touting the U.S. electorate on political elections.

BEAR IN MIND always that the touts are not as guilty as they appear to be. All they purport to do is make an educated guess about the way the vote would be divided if the election had been held on some arbitrary date other than Election Day. They explain there is no harm in this and hasten to admit many things can happen before Election Day.

But no one is so naive as not to know that the wallop in political polls is the way they are construed by rank-and-file voters, who interpret them as actual forecasts of the election outcome.

Even if every poll were as scientific as its backers claim it is, polling still would be a headache for campaigners. It saddles them with a pseudo-scientific handicap and it complicates partisan politics tremendously—not because it's done but because it's supposed to be scientific.

Science! That's the key word in mid-century. Everything scientific! Nothing left to mere chance any more! Witchcraft is dead; long live Science!

SCIENTIFIC polling showed Thomas E. Dewey beating the spots off Harry Truman in 1948. It showed Herbert Hoover withstanding the onslaught of the Rooseveltians in that forgotten past when the Rooseveltians accused the Republicans of spending too much money.

Last year in Britain, psuedo-scientific pollsters had a high old time in territory never previously touched by their necromancy.

They had British voters hopped up to the point of believing the Labor party, which even then was in the shadows of its coming oblivion, would win the election.

A lot of Britons are still sore about the money they lost when Conservatives won the election going away, and pollsters are not in good repute in Britain.

The polling gimmick takes understanding; no doubt about it.

And particularly is it going to take understanding in the United States in 1960 in a presidential election that looks like such a squeaker it still could be a tossup on the eve of Election Day.

America votes only once—on Nov. 8.

Of all years, this is the one to be leary of polls that show Kennedy getting 83.7 per cent of the votes of girls under 21 years of age and Nixon being favored by 87.3 of former students of Whittier College.

This is the year to be leery of polls . . . period.

What Is Indefensible?

It is frightening to learn that Sen. Kennedy was not trapped into a quick answer on Quemoy and Matsu in his debate with Vice President Nixon last week.

He has repeated the position he took then: that the United States should not defend these two Nationalist Chinese islands close to the Red China shore because they are indefensible.

Talk like this simply is the bitter mistake President Truman's secretary of state, Dean Acheson, made in January 1950. Mr. Acheson drew a United States Pacific "defense line" east of Korea, and in less than six months the North Korean Communists invaded South Korea.

Mr. Acheson in effect invited the Communists to walk in and they accepted the invitations. They were the most surprised people on earth when the United Nations, at the behest of the United States, rushed to the defense of South Korea.

THE SAME THING would happen at Quemoy and Matsu. Red China would have seized them two years ago if the United States had not sounded a "no trespassing" warning by sending the 7th Fleet to protect them.

Time and time again the world has seen what the Communists will do if given carte blanche. They seized half a dozen Eastern European countries. They have attempted to stir up revolt in Far Eastern countries whose peoples were seeking to establish their own national governments. They have given active support to Castro's seizure of American businesses in Cuba. As recently as last month, after urging that the Belgians get out, they rushed in to try to take over the Congo.

The record is clear as to what the Communists would do if they were assured no one would object if they walked in on Quemoy and Matsu. They would take the islands, then work next on Nationalist China's Formosa.

OF COURSE these tiny islands are "indefensible," as Mr. Kennedy says. Of course no military commander would choose them as a battleground.

But so is Berlin. It is even more "indefensible" from a military viewpoint. So were the Philippines, Hawaii, and Alaska. Florida, Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal would be difficult to defend. But no American would think of sloughing them off.

The British Isles were "indefensible" in 1940 and 1941, but, thank God, the British defended them.

No, Mr. Kennedy, the United States cannot afford to invite the Communists to consume free people's territory. As Vice President Nixon said, they are of no importance as pieces of land. But they belong to Nationalist China, and their people do not want to be subjugated to Red China.

If we issue such an invitation—which we can be sure the Communists gratefully would accept—we had better be prepared to write off Formosa. And then the Philippines. And the rest of the Pacific.

Or we shall have to fight again to retrieve a grave diplomatic mistake.

Isolated Incident?

Pranksters have been on the prowl in the Salineville area — with the approaching Halloween season being blamed.

If Halloween is to blame, we have the feeling that it will prove somewhat of an isolated incident in view of the decreasing vandalism over the last few years.

There have been thoughtless pranks to be sure, but to the credit of the youngsters it must be conceded that they have been accepting Halloween more and more as a season of frolic and trick or treat rather than a time of senseless destruction.

And this is not the time to begin swinging back in the other direction. The pranks of yesteryear should remain topics of Halloween conversation for the old-timers and not serve as examples for youngsters to follow.

The street dances and other events which have won so much favor should remain the theme of this year's observance. Halloween should be remembered as a time of fun and carefree activity, not one of vicious and costly vandalism.

Let's hope incidents such as that at Salineville prove few and far between.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Second debate between Dick and Jack was so much better than first one that descendants of Lincoln and Douglas won't sue both. This time they could be identified as competitors without a program.

There is still no need for someone to count at the knockdowns but the debate no longer resembled a meeting of tranquilizer salesmen in an ice house.

Some poll takers report fewer listeners. This indicates both boys have lost ground to Ingrid Bergman in 1950 movie "Stromboli," "Mike Wallace," "Night Court" and "U.S. Border Patrol," rival TV shows during same period.

There's no telling how candidates might have done if debate had continued during the "Dybbuk," "Pony Express" and "Sunset Strip."

Realizing that TV thrillers are few without brass knuckles, sixguns, and one opponent knocking another over a sofa and stomping on his face, Dick and Jack reached for rough-age areas by leaping into Cuban and Formosa combat.

Kennedy dragged in Castro with charge Nixon was responsible for all Cuban troubles, the permit for Castro to grow a beard and the litter of chicken feathers in a Manhattan hotel.

Nevertheless the program lacked wall-to-wall violence with neither blaming the other for Cyrus Eaton luncheons and Chief Justice Warren's presence at Toots Sher's saloon ground breaking.

Jack also dragged McKinley, Harding and Coolidge into the act, proving ability to go deeper into outfield than Dick.

New scenic effects were a former and neither candidate looked as if made-up for college presentation of "Charlie's Aunt."

Brain squads of TV switched to lecterns which hid legs and feet of both men, leaving unsettled the great question whether either could be the first bowlegged man to enter the White House.

They also showed quizzers front and rear, giving them one-minute head-on and two minutes from the stern.

Kennedy has developed a "let-me-at-him" look suggesting "Danger. Explosives Within" sign. He has killed the "too young" critics by seeming to have aged 10 years in the last 10,000 miles.

A GRAND JURY has returned second degree perjury charges against 20 TV quiz show scandal participants. Second degree perjury means the jury wasn't sure of the right answer to "what is first degree perjury?"

Nehru went to the world series game, but did not offer a resolution urging that, with bases full, the umpires should call in the neutrals. There were moments when he seemed to weaken in non-violence stand.

Joseph N. Welch, who died the other day, was a figure out of the age of homespun, simple - living, plain spoken non - grandstand playing Americans who thought and talked straight, scorning histrionics.

It was ironical that, lacking showmanship, he became a star in show business, frequently in demand for movies and TV.

A country boy out of a town called Primgha, Iowa, he was a lawyer in Walpole, Mass., when fate drew him into the McCarthy-Army TV probe.

He was the most unknown man in the case, yet wound up as its best remembered.

Drastic Sort Of An Eye Opener

The GE Strike Through Ohioans' Eyes

By Victor Riesel

This final conflict between the influential leaders of the national labor movement will become a major presidential issue whether the candidates like it or not.

Victor Riesel

This I discovered when, in the fashion of the times and the mood of the moment, I went to a neutral in the counterpart of Middletown, U.S.A. Specifically it was Bucyrus, O.

The neutral, interested only in law and order, was Capt. Spaeth of the local police force. He had been observing the industrial war sweeping his 10,000-population city as it has other communities through which I've traveled from the Boston area to Texas.

Laconically, Capt. Spaeth and one or two associated with the local educational system spoke of the "milling and shoving, hat-pin wielding and kicking in of cars" by pickets in front of the smallest of GE plants.

It is a one-story plant right near the school in a workingman's residential area. It is a lamp (electric bulb) division. Company figures put the production workers' employment at 250, 80 per cent of them women.

MONDAY MORNING, a day after the official strike call, they came to work. There was some pushing. Tuesday the pickets massed. They had come in from nearby plants. It got real rough, was the neutral observation.

Cars were kicked in. Windows were smashed. Rocks were thrown. Pickets strung cars for a quarter of a mile down the road.

A non-striking male employe, Tom Seis, got his head pummeled amid the outcries of parents escorting their youngsters to school. Real life classes were outdoors that morning.

There were arrests of pickets for malicious destruction of property. Some workers in the plant wanted to leave for home Wednesday night.

The police chief called in union leaders and got safe conduct through the lines. It did the labor movement and its champions no good in Bucyrus.

Nor was the abandoning of locked cars to block roadways or the forcing of city emergencies elsewhere aided the cause of the Electrical Workers, whose national leader is James B. Carey, an AFL-CIO vice president and a member of its eight-man national executive committee.

MY NEXT CALL was to the GE executive offices. Speaking in the name of the company, Philip Moore, chief negotiator, whose title is manager, employe relations Service, said:

"We did not call the strike. It was imposed on us by James B. Carey. Every employe has the right to strike. Every employe equally has the right not to strike.

"We have an obligation to provide jobs wherever we can for those who are willing and able to work. We cannot allow the forces of lawlessness to sway us from trying to discharge this obligation.

"In the future, as in the past, we will continue to do our best to keep our plants open to employes who want to work."

This then is the issue, it seems to me, far more than even the official demands and the company offer.

The company's insistence on its right to keep its plants going regardless of picket lines on a national level is precedent shattering in our times.

Furthermore, GE is pulling no punches when it comes to showdowns with the law enforcement people. It already is charging that in some areas the police are "politically unwilling" to protect the plants and help keep them open.

FROM THE UNION the word is that GE is trying to smash the labor movement by first cracking the striking union.

Carey is saying that GE is "willing to indict any segment of our society which does not see eye to eye with their antediluvian philosophies."

He now is raising financial and moral help. There is a million strike fund available in labor's Industrial Union Dept. From Walter Reuther's auto union and Dave McDonald's steelworkers probably will come another $2 million. In the end the total will hit $10 million, it is believed.

In Pittsburgh, Carey's union is deadlocked with Westinghouse. There the contract expires later this month. In Buffalo, leaders of unions at the Sylvania Electric Products negotiations, speaking for workers in plants from Massachusetts to California, rejected a company offer.

Soon the bulk of the electrical industry may be tied up—right at the height of the presidential campaign.

And in communities such as Bucyrus, the nearby shouts of the pickets will be heard above the policy speeches of the campaigners.

Abnormal Khrushchev

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Premier Khrushchev's actions—by all the orderly standards of the United Nations—have been abnormal. It seems fair now to ask: How much balance does he have?

For 22 days in this country, instead of appealing to reason and fairness, Khrushchev has tried repeatedly to obtain what he wants by threats. Whether or not his fits of anger are real or for effect, his purpose has been to intimidate.

One after another his proposals have been frustrated. Each frustration seems to have driven him to a new excess.

He could have presented his ideas in one well-arranged package. Instead, he seems to have improvised, thinking up new extremes as he went along.

If he follows through on some of his threats, then his main accomplishment in visiting the United Nations has been to wreck it.

He said he wanted disarmament. But he also said he wanted Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold thrown out and replaced by a three-man secretariat, one representing communism, one the West, and one the neutrals.

Then he coupled disarmament with Hammarskjold. Khrushchev said that if he didn't get the three-man secretariat, then there could be no disarmament.

Even the dullest U. N. delegate could see what Khrushchev wanted was not really a three-man, balanced secretariat but a hunting license.

If Russia tried an adventure anywhere in the world and the three secretaries sat down to discuss action to stop it, the secretary representing communism could prevent with a veto anything the other two secretaries wanted to do.

As time passed and Khrushchev saw he was making no progress on this, he went much further than just saying there could be no disarmament unless he got his three-man secretariat.

He said that unless he got it—even though every other nation voted against him—"we shall uphold our interests outside this international body, outside the U.N. by relying on our own strength."

What are Russia's "interests"? They could be anything Khrushchev wanted them to be. This threat, if carried out, will in effect wreck the United Nations, leaving it a kind of shadow organization.

It is not only his continuing threats but also his seeming obsession with the idea of war, destruction and death which seems peculiarly abnormal. He never stops talking about it, linking it obliquely with his threats.

He has lost at every turn, on everything he wanted at the United Nations. Now the world has to wait to see whether he makes good on his threats.

Kennedy Off Base

By David Lawrence

Salem Speech Of Candidate Questioned

Unless Sen. Kennedy repudiates the speech he made at Salem, Ohio, over the weekend, he may, if elected president of the United States, find that he has embarrassed his own government.

David Lawrence

For Mr. Kennedy took the position that, when a country "abstains" from voting on an issue in the United Nations General Assembly, it is "against" the proposition under consideration. He said:

"Out of the 24 nations on the newest continent (Africa), 22 were against us."

But 14 of these 22 votes, it so happened, were from countries that had "abstained" from taking a position either way on the pending motion to start debate on the admission of Red China.

Since when is a member of any organization governed by parliamentary rules — including the United States Senate—to be regarded as voting "against" when the record is "present but not voting"?

Looking over the full list of 22 countries that "abstained," it will be noted that Israel and Portugal, for instance, were among them.

Can it be said that Israel has deserted the United States and favors the position of the Soviet Union just because of a declination to vote for or against this resolution?

THE RECORD since 1952 shows that the United States has mustered between 42 and 47 votes each year against debate on a resolution to admit Red China to the U.N.

This year the vote in support of the United States position was 42, which is exactly what it was in 1952 at the height of the Korean War, when Red China was fighting the United Nations armies.

Can it be said that the position of the United States, therefore, on this particular motion has really weakened, as Sen. Kennedy claims?

The fact of the matter is that a two - thirds majority would be needed to seat Red China in the General Assembly—or at least 66 votes out of the present U.N. membership of 99.

This means that, for Red China to become a member of the assembly, 32 votes would be needed in addition to the 34 votes this year in favor of debating the question.

So all of the 22 abstentions plus at least 10 of those countries now standing with the United States would have to be obtained by the Red China supporters.

This is so improbable that it gives a clue as to why 22 members abstained from voting last Friday on the United States resolution not to take up the question of admitting Red China.

THEY KNEW the resolution would win anyway and they could gain a little neutrality mileage for themselves by "abstaining."

Many a so-called "neutral" finds it desirable now and then not to offend the Communist bloc, especially when on the opposite side no offense is felt by the United States against the member countries that abstain from voting.

When is Sen. Kennedy going to come to grips with the real problem that will confront the United States. The question of whether the assembly without being ad-not debate the admission of Red China is a relatively minor one.

After there is a vote to begin debate, another vote has to be taken and a two-thirds majority recorded before Red China is admitted to the General Assembly.

Even then, it would be possible for Red China to be a member of the assembly without being admitted to the Security Council, in which the United States has a veto.

Mr. Lodge already has stated that such a veto would be exercised in the Security Council.

Nationalist China could, therefore, remain in the Security Council while Red China held China's seat in the General Assembly.

The question is one that really involves the right of both bodies to pass on the credentials of factions within a given country.

IT WOULD BE a sad day for the Soviet Union if it took the position that the assembly may pass judgment on whether a particular government is representative of its people.

Thus, the recognition of governments-in-exile has been acclaw and it might be that there will arise governments-in-exile to challenge the right of the present representatives of Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Albania, Bulgaria, the Ukraine and Romania to sit in the United Nations General Assembly.

There's a long and tempestuous course ahead for Red China, and those who are predicting "eventual" admission—as are Mr. Nehru and Sen. Morse—are forgetting the barriers that lie ahead.

What's more important to the American people at the moment is whether Mr. Kennedy, as president, would instruct the American representative in the United Nations to vote against the admission of Red China or to "abstain."

This is the real issue and a pledge on this is essential to an understanding of whether, under a Democratic administration, the trend is going to be toward favoring Communist China to the discouragement of the million or more troops in South Korea, Formosa and the Philippines who now are protecting our military position in the Far East.

By Truman Twill

On this day I made one of the rare speeches I occasionally get conned into making, and it stirred afresh all my doubts about this folkway.

Everybody concerned would have been better off in the long run if I had remained seated while the chairman passed out to the members printed copies of what I had prepared for the occasion.

The listeners then could have gone to their comfortable homes and exercised the option to throw their copy away or glance over it to see if they were interested.

The more I hear, the more certain I am that the only sound use for public speaking is exhortation. The medium is misused for all other purposes, except humor.

I would walk three miles in the rain to hear a genuinely funny man do his stuff on a speaker's platform. I would walk five miles to hear a spellbinder put on his act. But for all other speeches, I wouldn't stir out of my chair. These are the ones that should be put into print and passed out for whatever ultimate disposal seemed suitable.

One other kind of speechmaking fascinates me — the pitchman's spiel. Every time I look for a can opener in the kitchen, I run across a dingus that was so ably pitched by a spieler at the county fair that I paid a dollar for it.

In actual truth, I paid the dollar for the spiel. We already had half a dozen other useless gadgets at home that had been bought under the same circumstances.

Years have passed since I bought the last one, and I have yet to discover in my own hands any of the marvelous uses the spieler demonstrated before my eyes. That, however, isn't public speaking. It's salesmanship.

Another season of public speaking now is breaking over the land, paced by the 1960 political candidates. By the time they're through, our ears will be sagging and our willingness to listen will be paralyzed. But public speakers will drone on, unheard and unhinged.

The shrewdest thing they could do — if they dared — would be to acknowledge this by refusing to indulge in any more harangue. One day, a seeker of high office in this country will hire a team of gagmen from show business and turn himself into an out-and-out entertainer. He will win.

This has been done successfully by some of the small fry in office-seeking. It works. People come to see them and to be entertained, and they go away satisfied.

There should be no neglect of serious things. But they should be tended to through the printed word. I find myself unable to grasp the intricacies of deep-dish speechmaking when momentous issues are under discussion. I don't really know what was said until I read a text.

There is nothing peculiar about my inability to stay on the track. When other people try to tell me "what the man said," once I have examined the text of what he really said, they make only wild and weird approximations of what he actually said.

But the fullway hangs on and on and on. Speeches must be made, and people must listen. Chairs are hard and spoken words are inadequate.

Put it in writing and let the victims go home early.

According to the Book of Deuteronomy, in the Bible, a man should take a year's vacation when he marries. The fifth Verse of Chapter 24 states: "When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any business, but he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken."

in 1961, to discuss disarmament alone. He said American preoccupation with the presidential election precludes the United States from assuming "any new important obligations" on disarmament.

Western delegates opposed this proposition. Hours later Khrushchev suddenly demanded the rostrum again.

He lumbered onto the dais and began to storm.

He seemed to take the position that the West was trying to frighten him.

"We won't be bullied. We won't be scared," he thundered. "If you want to compete with us in the armaments race, we will beat you at that. Our rockets come out like sausages from the machine. Do you want to try us out?"

Later he returned to this theme in another roaring passage.

"We are not bulls to be scared at red cloths. We are Communists. Our nerves are strong. Do you want to scare us with arguments? You haven't got the guts to do it.

"We are not afraid of war. If a war is to be foisted on us, we will be victorious regardless of sacrifices. But the losses will be uncountable and appalling."

He told the delegates: "Some of you will not be here" if a nuclear war breaks out.

Khrushchev said he is ready to go back to Moscow Thursday night. But he added he would prolong his stay in New York if it appeared there was any hope of progress on disarmament.

Communist delegations matched his explosive words with explosions of applause. The majority of delegates watched in stony silence.

James J. Wadsworth, chief U.S. delegate, who spoke in rebuttal to the Soviet premier, earned a great burst of applause when he said:

"If the intervention which we have just heard from the representative of the Soviet Union is typical of what he would say in the disarmament debate, that is all the more reason why it should not be held in this chamber."

Khrushchev was still raging when he left the assembly and went to the Soviet delegation's Park Avenue residence.

"We have been defeated—the country fighting for disarmament," he told newsmen.

"Those who support the position of the United States can celebrate a victory. They put off again the decision for discussion of disarmament.

"These are steps closer to war. It is not a victory for peace but a victory for those who want war."

Later, the Soviet mission issued a translation of Khrushchev's remark.

The remarks were revised to read: "You can congratulate the imperialist states and they can celebrate a victory. They have frustrated the discussion at the General Assembly of the United Nations and brought the world closer to catastrophe."

Truman Hits Religion 'Lies'

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman Tuesday night delivered what the Democrats say they hope will be the knockout punch against attacks on presidential candidate John F. Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion.

In an unusually serious mood, Truman told a crowd that gave approval 24 times with applause that "innuendoes and downright lies" are being used to arouse religious prejudice. "I say to you this is un-American. It makes me sick and it makes me want to fight and that is what I am doing," Truman said.

Truman, on stage with House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Ralph Yarborough, both Texas Democrats, devoted more than half his 30-minute speech to the question of religion.

The setting was in a central Texas area heavily populated by Baptists, like Truman, Rayburn and Yarborough.

Many Baptist ministers and other clergymen have openly questioned Kennedy's qualification to serve as president in view of his Catholic religion.

"I think that Jack Kennedy has responded very well to the attacks on his religion," Truman said. "He has answered all reasonable questions with patience, with dignity and candor."

Asking the audience, estimated by local Kennedy-Johnson leaders at 5,000, to "listen carefully," he read the part of Article VI of the Constitution which declares that no religious test shall be required as a qualification to any office of public trust.

They carried placards proclaiming "Down with the Ikeda Cabinet which killed Asanuma" and "Don't permit terrorism."

It was the first major political murder in 24 years in a country where "government by assassination" was prevalent before World War II. But it was the third political stabbing by a rightist fanatic in four months—the other victims recovered — and it raised fears that ultranationalist terrorism once again is becoming a major factor in political life.

Asanuma, 61, was in the midst of a speech when Yamaguchi rushed from the left side of the stage and struck twice with his sword. Asanuma staggered two or three steps, held his chest, mumbled some words and collapsed on the blood-spattered stage.

ment was called "woolly thinking" by Nixon, who said the free world should defend the islands as a matter of principle.

Nixon's position was described as "very risky and probably unjustified" by Fulbright, who said it would enable the communists to maneuver us into an unpopular, unjustified war.

"If Quemoy and Matsu are unimportant and not worth of defense, why does Red China so avidly want them?" Lausche asked in his statement.

"I have listened to the same persons who are urging the abandonment of the Quemoys and Matsus urge that we separate ourselves from Franco Spain," he continued. "Whether we like Franco Spain or not, it is one of our most willing and friendly allied."

Stating that "appeasement should not be our course," Lausche added:

"We are right in princple and therefore should adhere to the proposition that appeasement and surrender to the abnormal demands of Communism can only lead to disaster for our country."

in 1961, to discuss disarmament alone. He said American preoccupation with the presidential election precludes the United States from assuming "any new important obligations" on disarmament.

Western delegates opposed this proposition. Hours later Khrushchev suddenly demanded the rostrum again.

He lumbered onto the dais and began to storm.

He seemed to take the position that the West was trying to frighten him.

"We won't be bullied. We won't be scared," he thundered. "If you want to compete with us in the armaments race, we will beat you at that. Our rockets come out like sausages from the machine. Do you want to try us out?"

Later he returned to this theme in another roaring passage.

"We are not bulls to be scared at red cloths. We are Communists. Our nerves are strong. Do you want to scare us with arguments? You haven't got the guts to do it.

"We are not afraid of war. If a war is to be foisted on us, we will be victorious regardless of sacrifices. But the losses will be uncountable and appalling."

He told the delegates: "Some of you will not be here" if a nuclear war breaks out.

Khrushchev said he is ready to go back to Moscow Thursday night. But he added he would prolong his stay in New York if it appeared there was any hope of progress on disarmament.

Communist delegations matched his explosive words with explosions of applause. The majority of delegates watched in stony silence.

James J. Wadsworth, chief U.S. delegate, who spoke in rebuttal to the Soviet premier, earned a great burst of applause when he said:

"If the intervention which we have just heard from the representative of the Soviet Union is typical of what he would say in the disarmament debate, that is all the more reason why it should not be held in this chamber."

Khrushchev was still raging when he left the assembly and went to the Soviet delegation's Park Avenue residence.

"We have been defeated—the country fighting for disarmament," he told newsmen.

"Those who support the position of the United States can celebrate a victory. They put off again the decision for discussion of disarmament.

"These are steps closer to war. It is not a victory for peace but a victory for those who want war."

Later, the Soviet mission issued a translation of Khrushchev's remark.

The remarks were revised to read: "You can congratulate the imperialist states and they can celebrate a victory. They have frustrated the discussion at the General Assembly of the United Nations and brought the world closer to catastrophe."

Truman Hits Religion 'Lies'

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman Tuesday night delivered what the Democrats say they hope will be the knockout punch against attacks on presidential candidate John F. Kennedy's Roman Catholic religion.

In an unusually serious mood, Truman told a crowd that gave approval 24 times with applause that "innuendoes and downright lies" are being used to arouse religious prejudice. "I say to you this is un-American. It makes me sick and it makes me want to fight and that is what I am doing," Truman said.

Truman, on stage with House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Ralph Yarborough, both Texas Democrats, devoted more than half his 30-minute speech to the question of religion.

The setting was in a central Texas area heavily populated by Baptists, like Truman, Rayburn and Yarborough.

Many Baptist ministers and other clergymen have openly questioned Kennedy's qualification to serve as president in view of his Catholic religion.

"I think that Jack Kennedy has responded very well to the attacks on his religion," Truman said. "He has answered all reasonable questions with patience, with dignity and candor."

Asking the audience, estimated by local Kennedy-Johnson leaders at 5,000, to "listen carefully," he read the part of Article VI of the Constitution which declares that no religious test shall be required as a qualification to any office of public trust.

They carried placards proclaiming "Down with the Ikeda Cabinet which killed Asanuma" and "Don't permit terrorism."

It was the first major political murder in 24 years in a country where "government by assassination" was prevalent before World War II. But it was the third political stabbing by a rightist fanatic in four months—the other victims recovered—and it raised fears that ultranationalist terrorism once again is becoming a major factor in political life.

Asanuma, 61, was in the midst of a speech when Yamaguchi rushed from the left side of the stage and struck twice with his sword. Asanuma staggered two or three steps, held his chest, mumbled some words and collapsed on the blood-spattered stage.

ment was called "woolly thinking" by Nixon, who said the free world should defend the islands as a matter of principle.

Nixon's position was described as "very risky and probably unjustified" by Fulbright, who said it would enable the communists to maneuver us into an unpopular, unjustified war.

"If Quemoy and Matsu are unimportant and not worth of defense, why does Red China so avidly want them?" Lausche asked in his statement.

"I have listened to the same persons who are urging the abandonment of the Quemoys and Matsus urge that we separate ourselves from Franco Spain," he continued. "Whether we like Franco Spain or not, it is one of our most willing and friendly allied."

Stating that "appeasement should not be our course," Lausche added:

"We are right in princple and therefore should adhere to the proposition that appeasement and surrender to the abnormal demands of Communism can only lead to disaster for our country."

ORIGINAL SURVEY. This photographic copy of the plat of the original survey of the land along the Ohio River where East Liverpool now stands has been donated to the East Liverpool Historical Society by Donald Clement, cadastral engineer with the Bureau of Land Management of the Department of Interior. The survey of Township 5, First Range, was executed by Absalom Martin of New Jersey in 1786. It shows 4,299 acres (the shaded area) were purchased by Isaac Craig, former commandant of Ft. Pitt. Craig, for whom Craig St. in Pittsburgh is named, later sold part of the riverfront land, as far as Carpenter's Run at the extreme left, to Thomas Fawcett, who founded the city. Clement sent the copy of the survey to the Historical Society after attending the 175th anniversary marking the "point of beginning" of the survey of western public lands here on Sept. 30.

Enrollment Drive Launched For Red Cross Gray Ladies

A week-long drive was launched Tuesday to enroll new members in the Red Cross Gray Ladies, a volunteer organization which serves in hospitals and the County Home and at health clinics.

Prospective members may file applications in person or by phone with the Red Cross office in the Mary Patterson Memorial. In addition, Gray Ladies will operate a booth to enroll members Thursday through Friday on the main floor of the D. M. Ogilvie & Co. store.

Mrs. J. Donald Thompson, Red Cross chairman of volunteers, said the Gray Ladies serve at both the City Hospital and Osteopathic Hospital in addition to aiding in operation of various health clinics and assisting residents of the County Home near Lisbon.

They perform "friendly services" such as escorting patients to their rooms when they are admitted to a hospital; taking them to the X-ray department; assisting those who are unable to feed themselves, reading to patients and writing letters for them.

Applicants will be interviewed and given free physical examinations at City Hospital before beginning a training course. Any woman over 18 may apply.

The training will be supervised by Mrs. Helen Bemis, R.N., of Wellsville, surgical and medical supervisor at City Hospital. It will consist of six hours of class training and two hours of review work. There will be an additional two hours of orientation into Red Cross and Gray Ladies work.

About 153 women were signed for the organization as a result of another membership enrollment effort a year ago. However, many of the new members did not complete the training course because illness or winter weather interfered with their attendance.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make an emergency repair to a coffee percolator when the glass top has been broken and there is no replacement available?

A. Take a double fold of cellophane wrap large enough to come through the opening where the glass top belongs, with enough to stick slightly over the edge when the cover is on. The coffee will perk as usual.

Q. How can I make the white collars and cuffs, and other white trim, on my little girl's dresses sparkling white when laundering them?

A. Dip a small toothbrush into bleach solution and rub over the white parts before laundering the dresses. This takes only a few minutes, and the dresses will look fresh and new much longer.

Q. How can I ease the arduous job of ironing pleats in dresses?

A. You should experience much less difficulty if you use some paper clips to hold each pleat in place. These can be slipped on and off quickly and easily, and leave no marks.

Accidents Uncurbed

'Scare' Drives Don't Help Traffic Safety, AAA Told

CLEVELAND (AP)—The grisly photograph, the statistics that compute your chances of being killed in traffic by sundown of a holiday—these and other tools in traffic safety "scare campaigns," don't reduce accidents, an expert reported today.

Dr. James L. Malfetti, executive officer of the safety research and education project at Columbia University, reported some of his findings in an address to the 58th annual convention of the American Automobile Association.

"We have found so far no instance in which scare campaigns in traffic safety have reduced accidents," Dr. Malfetti said, "and we have some evidence that they may do more harm than good."

The Columbia project, financed with a $100,000 grant from the AAA, conducted a study of Cleveland teen-age traffic violators and non-violators to determine psychological differences between the two groups. Among things found, Dr. Malfetti said, were that the violators, compared with the non-violators, were:

1. More inclined to impulsive behavior and action inconsiderate of others.

2. Subject to more conflicts or maladjustments in their family life.

3. More irresponsible and rebellious and less conforming to the demands of society.

4. More shy, secretive, hypersensitive and easily embarrassed and had more trouble making friends and meeting problems squarely.

5. Less economically independent.

6. More easily depressed and more pessimistic and lacking in self-confidence.

7. More indifferent to safety in driving a car and safety in general.

8. Children of parents less active in political and other civic affairs of the community.

In a panel discussion Tuesday, participants agreed the idea central business districts are doomed to strangulation by growing traffic congestion is "one of the great myths of our time."

It was brought out that in some cities about 50 per cent of all traffic in the central business district was made up of through traffic and a provision of belt or by-pass routes would go a long way toward solving congestion problems.

For Fire Prevention Week

Wellsville Firemen Hold Poster Contest In Schools

The Wellsville fire department is conducting a poster contest in the elementary grades and will hold open house at the station Saturday in conjunction with Fire Prevention Week, it was announced today.

The poster contest is open to all students from the first through the sixth grades. They are making their own posters from materials of their own choosing. The posters will be collected for judging Friday.

Cash prizes will be given the winners, who will be announced next week. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is providing the money for the prizes.

Coffee and doughnuts will be served during open house Saturday from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. Firemen asked that any child under 14 be accompanied by a parent.

Several members of the volunteer department will be on duty along with regular firemen to conduct tours and to explain the various pieces of equipment.

Firemen said smaller pieces will be displayed on tables. Frank Fusco, a regular fireman, is in charge of the prevention program this year. He is being assisted by Chief Robert Lewis, Assistant Chief Robert Lloyd and members of the volunteers.

A checklist on home hazards is being distributed to each house in Wellsville. Firemen also are distributing stickers to be placed on telephones. The stickers have a fire prevention slogan and the emergency and non-emergency numbers of the department.

A large sign has been erected across Main St. at 9th St., proclaiming Fire Prevention Week. Posters are being displayed in business places.

Fire plug markers have been utilized all over town. They contain fire prevention information.

Firemen also have been conducting drills in the schools. Posters pertaining to prevention of fires in industries have been distributed.

Car Crash Kills Nurse

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A 61-year-old industrial nurse was killed Tuesday in a two-car collision on Ohio 18. Coroner David A. The car struck the curb and a sign post and then veered across the road into an oncoming car. Two persons in the other car were injured slightly.

'Scare' Drives Don't Help Traffic Safety, AAA Told

CLEVELAND (AP)—The grisly photograph, the statistics that compute your chances of being killed in traffic by sundown of a holiday—these and other tools in traffic safety "scare campaigns," don't reduce accidents, an expert reported today.

Dr. James L. Malfetti, executive officer of the safety research and education project at Columbia University, reported some of his findings in an address to the 56th annual convention of the American Automobile Association.

"We have found so far no instance in which scare campaigns in traffic safety have reduced accidents," Dr. Malfetti said, "and we have some evidence that they may do more harm than good."

The Columbia project, financed with a $100,000 grant from the AAA, conducted a study of Cleveland teen-age traffic violators and non-violators to determine psychological differences between the two groups. Among things found, Dr. Malfetti said, were that the violators, compared with the non-violators, were:

1. More inclined to impulsive behavior and action inconsiderate of others.

2. Subject to more conflicts or maladjustments in their family life.

3. More irresponsible and rebellious and less conforming to the demands of society.

4. More shy, secretive, hypersensitive and easily embarrassed and had more trouble making friends and meeting problems squarely.

5. Less economically independent.

6. More easily depressed and more pessimistic and lacking in self-confidence.

7. More indifferent to safety in driving a car and safety in general.

8. Children of parents less active in political and other civic affairs of the community.

In a panel discussion Tuesday, participants agreed the idea central business districts are doomed to strangulation by growing traffic congestion is "one of the great myths of our time."

It was brought out that in some cities about 50 per cent of all traffic in the central business district was made up of through traffic and a provision of belt or by-pass routes would go a long way toward solving congestion problems.

Deadline Set On B & O, NYC Merger Study

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A Feb. 1 deadline has been set for completing a merger study of the physical plants of the Baltimore and Ohio and the New York Central Railroads.

The deadline was disclosed Tuesday by Douglas Campbell, Central vice president, who was in Baltimore looking at B&O facilities. Meanwhile, Clarence E. Jackman, chief B&O engineer, and J. C. Kenefick, Central's general manager of transportation, were visiting every operation of both railroads.

The joint study, which includes both operating equipment and offices, is aimed at determining what facilities could be dropped in the event of a merger between the two lines. Rail officials have said that as much as $100 million might be saved by the elimination of facilities the two roads now duplicate.

Officials have estimated that similar savings of only about $25 million would result from a merger of the B&O with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway.

Both Central and C&O have made determined bids for control of B&O stock. But while Central President Alfred E. Perlman has said he would welcome a three-way merger between the lines, C&O has ruled out the possibility.

The B&O charged several weeks ago that the C&O was not interested in a merger, but merely wanted to control B&O stock. C&O officials denied the charge and offered to open a joint study of the economies that would result from the merger. But since then, B&O has leaned increasingly in the direction of a consolidation with Central.

It will be under the direction of Thor Johnson, who conducted "The Symphony-of-the-Air" a year ago in Japan.

One or two more concerts will be announced after the campaign closes Saturday.

Those joining will receive reciprocal privileges without cost at surrounding cities. There will be a minimum of 20 concerts throughout the area.

Miss Olive Williamson, secretary, will be there daily. The tickets are $7.73 for adults, and $3.61 for students, including those in colleges and extension courses.

Fire Calls Now 8; Truck Is Disabled

Troubles continue to plague city firemen even though it is Fire Prevention Week.

One of the trucks had to be taken to a garage for repairs today and two more calls were answered Tuesday, raising the total to eight for the week. The special week was launched Sunday.

Firemen said the No. 1 pumper developed transmission and rear-end trouble.

Firemen were called to flush gasoline leaking from parked cars at 5th and Washington Sts. at 2:05 p. m. yesterday and a short time later to Minerva and Walnut Sts.

Firemen said they have a display of old pictures at Central Station in connection with open house. They show scenes of the departments of yesteryears, firemen said.

Firemen have a display in a window at Ogilvie's to show fire prevention material. Another display is in Milligan's Hardware window.

Engines Blamed In Electra Crash

BOSTON (AP)—The turboprop Electra which plunged into Boston harbor 14 seconds after take-off last week had lost power in one and possibly two port engines—but no structural defects were involved, the chairman of the House Aviation subcommittee says.

Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., said his subcommittee found no reason to order other Electras grounded. The Boston crash, which killed 62 persons, was the fifth involving the Lockheed Electra since the planes went into service two years ago.

He said the subcommittee, which held an 8½-hour closed-door hearing in Boston, found no conclusive evidence that birds sucked into the air intake caused the engines to fail. That is the view of Gen. E. R. Quesada, head of the Federal Aviation Agency, who testified at the hearing.

Dead starlings were found scattered over the airport runway used by the ill-fated Eastern Air Lines plane.

Vigilant U.S. Urged In Talk

Vigilance by America was underscored by Paul Bloor, city pharmacist, who described the horrors of Hitler's Germany in a talk to the Rotary Club Tuesday noon in the Travelers Hotel.

Bloor told of his visits in 1945 to the infamous Dachau concentration camp while serving in an Army medical detachment.

He showed photographs of scenes at Dachau where Nazi SS troopers executed thousands of prisoners during World War II.

"Surely, knowing what Hitler did, will help us to thwart or avert whatever Russian Premier Khrushchev is trying to do to our world, specifically to the U. S.

"It is our applecart he is trying to upset," Bloor said. "Let's be vigilant, for these shackles still are being used and there are ovens just like those of Dachau that still are warm," he added.

Bloor said he was reminded of Hitler's dictatorship and atrocities when seeing pictures of Khrushchev "banging fists on tables and ranting at our Western diplomats" at UN sessions.

Bloor was introduced by Charles W. Gerster, program chairman. George Hargraves, president, presided. A Rotary Club banner brought back from Alaska by Dr. C. M. Mayberry who recently visited the 49th state, was displayed.

OSU Picked Over Purdue, Syracuse Is Given Edge

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In fourteen hundred ninety-two, Columbus sailed the ocean blue.

He landed 468 years ago today amidst great confusion. Some of the confusion still exists but it is concentrated primarily among football forecasters. So great was the confusion last week that 17 incorrect picks were scattered among 34 others that were exactly on the button. That cut the season's average to .730.

This week's selections:

Mississippi over Tulane: The Rebels' Jake Gibbs is an outstanding quarterback and has accounted for 533 yards, personally, in Mississippi's four straight triumphs this year. He's too much for Tulane to handle.

Iowa over Wisconsin: Two teams that have done better than expected but the Hawkeye speed will prevail.

Ohio State over Purdue: Bob Ferguson, the Ohio State fullback, is 217 pounds of pure dynamite. The Boilermakers present a leaky defense.

Syracuse over Penn State: A Syracuse official called the defending national champions "fat and complacent" after their squeaker with Holy Cross. Penn State will pay the penalty.

Navy over Air Force: A personal duel between the Middies' Joe Bellino and the Falcons' Rich Mayo. Bellino will get the more help.

Missouri over Kansas State: With the greatest of ease.

Baylor over Texas Tech: By about two touchdowns.

Clemson over Maryland: The Carolina Tigers get revenge for the 28-25 setback of a year ago. It could go the other way.

Kansas over Oklahoma: Oklahome has lost only one conference game in 13 years. The second loop defeat will be delivered Saturday with John Hadl and Bert Coan doing the heavy work.

Elsewhere: Minnesota over Illinois; Texas over Arkansas; Washington over UCLA; Michigan State over Notre Dame; Tennessee over Alabama; Oregon State over Idaho; Arizona State over Brigham Young; Auburn over Georgia Tech.

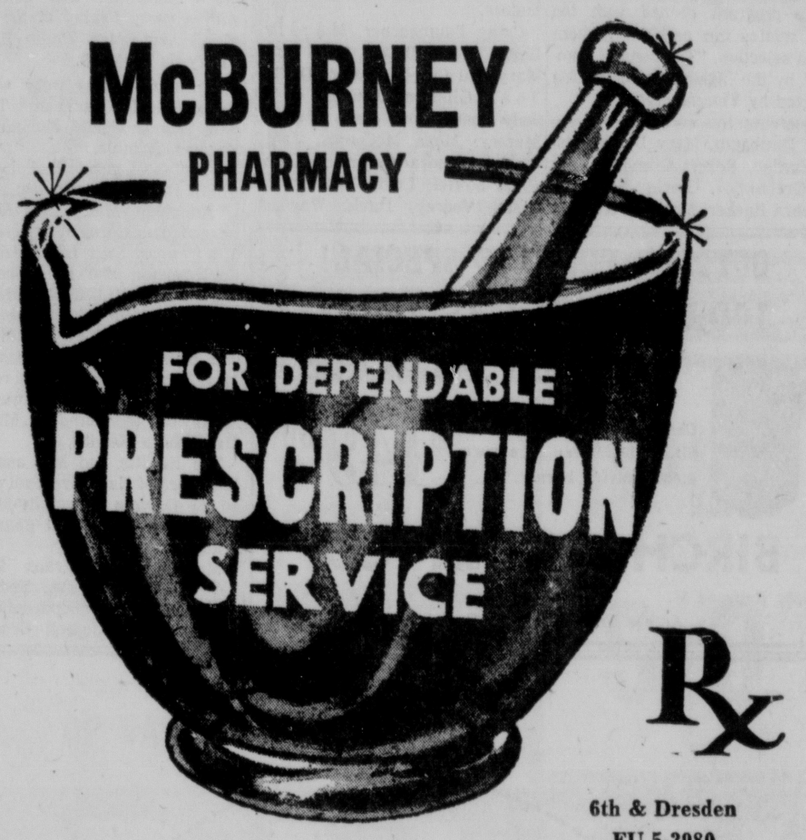

Army's unbeaten football team of 1944 scored 504 points while holding nine rivals to 35 points.

Yale's first football opponent was Columbia. They played in 1872; Yale won, 3 goals to none.

"It is our applecart he is trying to upset," Bloor said. "Let's be vigilant, for these shackles still are being used and there are ovens just like those of Dachau that still are warm," he added.

Bloor said he was reminded of Hitler's dictatorship and atrocities when seeing pictures of Khrushchev "banging fists on tables and ranting at our Western diplomats" at UN sessions.

Bloor was introduced by Charles W. Gerster, program chairman. George Hargraves, president, presided. A Rotary Club banner brought back from Alaska by Dr. C. M. Mayberry who recently visited the 49th state, was displayed.

OSU Picked Over Purdue, Syracuse Is Given Edge

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In fourteen hundred ninety-two, Columbus sailed the ocean blue.

He landed 468 years ago today amidst great confusion. Some of the confusion still exists but it is concentrated primarily among football forecasters. So great was the confusion last week that 17 incorrect picks were scattered among 34 others that were exactly on the button. That cut the season's average to .730.

This week's selections:

Mississippi over Tulane: The Rebels' Jake Gibbs is an outstanding quarterback and has accounted for 533 yards, personally, in Mississippi's four straight triumphs this year. He's too much for Tulane to handle.

Iowa over Wisconsin: Two teams that have done better than expected but the Hawkeye speed will prevail.

Ohio State over Purdue: Bob Ferguson, the Ohio State fullback, is 217 pounds of pure dynamite. The Boilermakers present a leaky defense.

Syracuse over Penn State: A Syracuse official called the defending national champions "fat and complacent" after their squeaker with Holy Cross. Penn State will pay the penalty.

Navy over Air Force: A personal duel between the Middies' Joe Bellino and the Falcons' Rich Mayo. Bellino will get the more help.

Missouri over Kansas State: With the greatest of ease.

Baylor over Texas Tech: By about two touchdowns.

Clemson over Maryland: The Carolina Tigers get revenge for the 28-25 setback of a year ago. It could go the other way.

Kansas over Oklahoma: Oklahome has lost only one conference game in 13 years. The second loop defeat will be delivered Saturday with John Hadl and Bert Coan doing the heavy work.

Elsewhere: Minnesota over Illinois; Texas over Arkansas; Washington over UCLA; Michigan State over Notre Dame; Tennessee over Alabama; Oregon State over Idaho; Arizona State over Brigham Young; Auburn over Georgia Tech.

Army's unbeaten football team of 1944 scored 504 points while holding nine rivals to 35 points.

Yale's first football opponent was Columbia. They played in 1872; Yale won, 3 goals to none.

Charges Sought In Boating Death

CLEVELAND (AP) — Criminal prosecution of Maurice Mindlin, 21, of Cleveland Heights, in the water ski death of a 17-year-old Cleveland girl here last July 11 has been recommended by the Coast Guard.

The recommendation was made by a board of investigation whose findings have been approved by Adm. A. C. Richmond, Coast Guard commandant in Washington, the ninth district Coast Guard headquarters here announced Tuesday. The commandant has turned the matter over to the U.S. Attorney's office.

Mindlin was found negligent in the board's session here. He was operating a 15-foot outboard motorboat in Lake Erie and towing Miss Carol Gilenko, who was on water skis, when a boat operated by Frank Fabric of Euclid struck the tow line and threw her against the Fabric boat. The girl died two hours later.

The inquiry board noted that the accident occurred after dark and pointed out that water skiing after dark is a violation of state and federal law.

Under federal law maximum penalty for the violation with which the report recommends Mindlin be charged is a year in prison and $2,000 fine. The maximum penalty is six months in jail and a $500 fine.

The International Council of Shopping Centers estimates about 900 new centers will have been built in the nation during 1960.

Scott Lashes Kennedy Plan

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Republican Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania — conducting a two-day swing through Ohio on behalf of presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon—will address students at Oberlin College today.

Scott, a member of the GOP's "Truth Squad" which seeks to counter claims made by the Democrats, has stops scheduled also at Sandusky, Kent and Portsmouth.

A former Republican National Committeeman Chairman, Scott lashed out at the Democrats in separate speeches in Columbus Tuesday and Dayton Tuesday night.

Speaking at Wampler Arena in Dayton, the Republican legislator said American housewives might find retail food prices going up 25 per cent under the farm program proposed by the Democrats.

Scott asserted that technicians in the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated in "a new nonpartisan analysis" that Democratic presidential candidate Sen. John F. Kennedy's farm plan would drive retail food prices up that much.

He said this "would very likely set off an inflationary round of wage and price increases." And, he said, "the people hurt worst would be those in the low income brackets who spend the highest proportion of their incomes on food."

Sen. Scott charged that the Kennedy farm program would bring about marketing controls on about 250 farm commodities, including livestock, poultry, fruits and vegetables.

U.S. Women Get OK On Lipsticks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The women of America may continue to buy lipsticks in their favorite colors.

The Food and Drug Administration has formally approved use of 13 specific coal tar colors for use in cosmetics, saying it is not inconsistent with the public health.

The finding, based on animal tests over the last two years, was made as a temporary measure pending more thorough testing over the next 2½ years.

The FDA once had ordered a ban on use of the colors, saying that test rats suffered liver, kidney and blood damage from a diet which included the dyes. The law then forebade use in cosmetics of any substance which caused damage in test animals.

Lipstick makers protested that no woman would swallow anything like the amount of the colors fed to the rats, but the law provided no leeway. Congress changed the law to permit use of the dyes in quantities found to be safe.

Those quantities were fixed in Tuesday's FDA order.

Pilot Saved In Crash During Ocean Hop Try

HONOLULU (AP)—Two North Dakota Air National Guardsmen, attempting a nonstop distance record in single-engine planes, were approaching Wake Island Tuesday night when one of the pilots radioed that he was unable to climb. A few minutes later Lt. Duane Stirling, 27, of Fargo, went into the ocean about three miles north of Wake.

His buddy, Capt. Charles Finnegan, 30, also of Fargo, landed at Wake.

The Coast Guard found Stirling bobbing in the Pacific. A Navy crash boat picked him up but there were no immediate reports on his condition.

The pilots were trying to fly nonstop from Oakland, Calif., to Manila.

Bob Grieve is in his 15th season as Syracuse University cross-country coach.

Doors Closed In Trials For Cuban Rebels

SANTA CLARA, Cuba (AP)—The biggest conspiracy trial of the Fidel Castro regime rolled on here today behind doors closed to all foreign newsmen except four Russians.

Newsmen counted 170 defendants, about a dozen of them in military uniform, who entered the courtroom at the trial opening Tuesday. Defense attorneys said more than 200 were on trial.

The accused are charged with waging armed rebellion in the Escambray Mountains or with collaborating with the insurgents.

Among those on trial was an American identified by the semi-official newspaper Revolucion as Richard Pecoraro of Staten Island, N. Y.

A New York City fireman by that name was fired from his job earlier this year after overstaying his leave on a trip to Cuba.

A second military tribunal at Santiago in eastern Cuba, was to begin hearing evidence today against 21 men the government says invaded the northeast coast of Cuba last week. They included another American identified as Anthony Zarba.

The Armed Forces Ministry announced Tuesday night that only five of the 27-man landing party was still at large. The leader previously had been reported killed.

Legislature May Set Registration Of Veterinarians

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If the 1961 legislature orders a yearly registration of Ohio's 993 veterinarians, says a state Agriculture official, it also may be giving the Veterinary Medical Board a means of enforcing rules.

Dr. Harry G. Geyer, chief of the state animal industry division and board secretary, said misunderstandings have hampered attempts to tighten up regulations about veterinarians' personal hygiene and cleanliness of facilities.

A number of veterinarians fear this may open the door to lawsuits, Geyer said, adding: "But these are regulations, not laws, and any charge of a violation would be brought before the board, not a court."

Geyer said some legislators have indicated the veterinary board must become self - supporting and an annual registration fee of between $1 and $20, probably $5 to $7, could accomplish this. He said the board needs about $6,500 a year.

With such a registration, he said, the board could insist on adherence to regulations under the possibility of refusing to register the offending veterinarian. Geyer said he has had only two complaints about veterinarian hygiene this year, compared with more than 30 in some years.

The Ohio Veterinary Association's executive committee will discuss the registration idea in Columbus Oct. 26.

Chamber Given Plans On Columbus Meeting

Plans for the second annual statewide Community Development Conference Nov. 4-5 at Columbus, sponsored by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, were explained at a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the local Chamber Tuesday afternoon.

East Liverpool expects to send a delegation to the meeting. Bert Wakefield reported for the membership committee. Eleven attended.

The next meeting will be Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 8.

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A mother and her four young daughters died in a fire that swept their two-story frame home early today.

Police identified the victims as Mary Dustin, 39, and her daughters, Annette, 6; Dawn, 4; Denice, 3; and Dorothy, 2. Two sons by a former marriage escaped.

The daughters' father died last August of a heart attack.

Wells Students Plan Parade, Pep Rally Thursday

Wells High School students at Newell will stage a parade and pep rally Thursday night on the eve of the "big" game Friday night with rival Chester High.

The two Hancock County foes will square off at 8 p. m. at Memorial Field in Newell. Chester teams have triumphed six years in a row.

Leading the parade at 6:30 will be the Wells High band directed by Mrs. Alyce Ann McDevitt. About 350 students may participate. After marching through the community, the students and band will return to the football field for the rally, with Mrs. Nancy Bottorf in charge of arrangements.

The Newell fire truck will be in the parade. Members of the Boosters Club and volunteer firemen will aid in traffic control.

The Boosters Club met at the school last night and heard plans for the parade and rally. Theodore Ulbright, president, presided. The club's annual membership drive is continuing.

The Wells High band performed in halftime ceremonies Saturday at the West Virginia-Richmond football game at Morgantown. The invitation to perform at a WVU game was the first received by the band and followed a high rating received last year at a state band contest.

Driver Dodges Crash, Strikes Parked Sedan

A 19-year-old motorist told police he swerved to avoid a collision with an oncoming car on Bradshaw Ave. Tuesday night at 11:41, causing him to hit another auto parked at the curb.

A 1955 convertible operated by Harold A. Walderhaug, 832 Bradshaw Ave., struck a parked 1955 four-door sedan owned by William R. Drane, 816 Bradshaw Ave., officers said.

Headed upgrade, Walderhaug said he was forced to swerve when a downbound vehicle crowded into his lane. Walderhaug said he applied the brakes as he swerved and his car moved to the right and hit Drane's auto. There was damage to the right front fender, bumper and steering mechanism of Walderhaug's car and the left rear fender and door of Drane's auto, officers said.

Georgia Tech had three straight unbeaten football seasons under Coach John W. Heisman.

Hays To Address Meeting On Nov. 5

Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Flushing, 18th Ohio District congressman, will be principal speaker at a Democratic rally Saturday, Nov. 5, at the party's city campaign headquarters in the former Trotter Building on Dresden Ave., one of the final meetings before the Nov. 8 general election.

Announcement of plans for the rally was made Tuesday night when the Men's Democratic Club met in the campaign headquarters. Luncheon will be served, James Flasco, chairman, said.

Ben Barrett of Salem, nominee for state representative, addressed the meeting last night. He pledged support of plans for the Lake Erie-Ohio River Highway, which would link East Liverpool and Ashtabula. Plans already have been made for construction of the first stages of the four-lane road.

The club decided to enter the UN Day parade here Monday, Oct. 24. Flasco announced the group will meet every Tuesday night until the election. Campaign material such as lapel buttons, bumper stickers and hats is available at the headquarters, he announced.

New booklets on "Charter, By-laws and Rules of Procedure" were distributed at the luncheon meeting of the Quota Club Tuesday afternoon at Travelers Hotel. Some 17 attended. Mrs. Jo Ann Dickson was a guest.

A letter was read announcing the new official name as "Quota International Inc." Miss Justine Miller, president, presided. Mrs. Eleanor Boice read the minutes and Mrs. Irma McGarey the financial report.

Miss Gladys DeBolt gave highlights of the recent convention of the 6th District held in Cleveland. As president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, she reported on the recent Executive Board meeting announcing the fall meeting Nov. 30 at the Mary Patterson Memorial.

Several members plan to attend the inter-city party sponsored by the Salem Club Tuesday at the Methodist Church.

An invitation was read from the Beaver Club to attend the fall conference of District 3 Friday night at the Brodhead Hotel in Beaver Falls. Mrs. Dorothy Patterson Sayre, international second vice president, will attend. The theme will be "A Night In Gay Paree."

The group voted to contribute $2, individually, to the American Hearing Society. A note of appreciation was read from Mrs. Greta Barrow of Cleveland, the new governor for the 6th District.

The club will be represented at the county regional planning meeting sponsored by the Columbiana County Agricultural Council Nov. 14 at St. George's Parish Hall in Lisbon.

U.S. Women Get OK On Lipsticks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The women of America may continue to buy lipsticks in their favorite colors.

The Food and Drug Administration has formally approved use of 13 specific coal tar colors for use in cosmetics, saying it is not inconsistent with the public health.

The finding, based on animal tests over the last two years, was made as a temporary measure pending more thorough testing over the next 2½ years.

The FDA once had ordered a ban on use of the colors, saying that test rats suffered liver, kidney and blood damage from a diet which included the dyes. The law then forebade use in cosmetics of any substance which caused damage in test animals.

Lipstick makers protested that no woman would swallow anything like the amount of the colors fed to the rats, but the law provided no leeway. Congress changed the law to permit use of the dyes in quantities found to be safe.

Those quantities were fixed in Tuesday's FDA order.

Pilot Saved In Crash During Ocean Hop Try

HONOLULU (AP)—Two North Dakota Air National Guardsmen, attempting a nonstop distance record in single-engine planes, were approaching Wake Island Tuesday night when one of the pilots radioed that he was unable to climb. A few minutes later Lt. Duane Stirling, 27, of Fargo, went into the ocean about three miles north of Wake.

His buddy, Capt. Charles Finnegan, 30, also of Fargo, landed at Wake.

The Coast Guard found Stirling bobbing in the Pacific. A Navy crash boat picked him up but there were no immediate reports on his condition.

The pilots were trying to fly nonstop from Oakland, Calif., to Manila.

Bob Grieve is in his 15th season as Syracuse University cross-country coach.

Doors Closed In Trials For Cuban Rebels

SANTA CLARA, Cuba (AP)—The biggest conspiracy trial of the Fidel Castro regime rolled on here today behind doors closed to all foreign newsmen except four Russians.

Newsmen counted 170 defendants, about a dozen of them in military uniform, who entered the courtroom at the trial opening Tuesday. Defense attorneys said more than 200 were on trial.

The accused are charged with waging armed rebellion in the Escambray Mountains or with collaborating with the insurgents.

Among those on trial was an American identified by the semi-official newspaper Revolucion as Richard Pecoraro of Staten Island, N. Y.

A New York City fireman by that name was fired from his job earlier this year after overstaying his leave on a trip to Cuba.

A second military tribunal at Santiago in eastern Cuba, was to begin hearing evidence today against 21 men the government says invaded the northeast coast of Cuba last week. They included another American identified as Anthony Zarba.

The Armed Forces Ministry announced Tuesday night that only five of the 27-man landing party was still at large. The leader previously had been reported killed.

Legislature May Set Registration Of Veterinarians

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If the 1961 legislature orders a yearly registration of Ohio's 983 veterinarians, says a state Agriculture official, it also may be giving the Veterinary Medical Board a means of enforcing rules.

Dr. Harry G. Geyer, chief of the state animal industry division and board secretary, said misunderstandings have hampered attempts to tighten up regulations about veterinarians' personal hygiene and cleanliness of facilities.

A number of veterinarians fear this may open the door to lawsuits, Geyer said, adding: "But these are regulations, not laws, and any charge of a violation would be brought before the board, not a court."

Geyer said some legislators have indicated the veterinary board must become self - supporting and an annual registration fee of between $1 and $20, probably $5 to $7, could accomplish this. He said the board needs about $6,500 a year.

With such a registration, he said, the board could insist on adherence to regulations under the possibility of refusing to register the offending veterinarian. Geyer said he has had only two complaints about veterinarian hygiene this year, compared with more than 30 in some years.

The Ohio Veterinary Association's executive committee will discuss the registration idea in Columbus Oct. 26.

Chamber Given Plans On Columbus Meeting

Plans for the second annual statewide Community Development Conference Nov. 4-5 at Columbus, sponsored by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, were explained at a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the local Chamber Tuesday afternoon.

East Liverpool expects to send a delegation to the meeting. Bert Wakefield reported for the membership committee. Eleven attended.

The next meeting will be Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 8.

Wells Students Plan Parade, Pep Rally Thursday

Wells High School students at Newell will stage a parade and pep rally Thursday night on the eve of the "big" game Friday night with rival Chester High.

The two Hancock County foes will square off at 8 p. m. at Memorial Field in Newell. Chester teams have triumphed six years in a row.

Leading the parade at 6:30 will be the Wells High band directed by Mrs. Alyce Ann McDevitt. About 350 students may participate. After marching through the community, the students and band will return to the football field for the rally, with Mrs. Nancy Bottorf in charge of arrangements.

The Newell fire truck will be in the parade. Members of the Boosters Club and volunteer firemen will aid in traffic control.

The Boosters Club met at the school last night and heard plans for the parade and rally. Theodore Ulbright, president, presided. The club's annual membership drive is continuing.

The Wells High band performed in halftime ceremonies Saturday at the West Virginia-Richmond football game at Morgantown. The invitation to perform at a WVU game was the first received by the band and followed a high rating received last year at a state band contest.

Driver Dodges Crash, Strikes Parked Sedan

A 19-year-old motorist told police he swerved to avoid a collision with an oncoming car on Bradshaw Ave. Tuesday night at 11:41, causing him to hit another auto parked at the curb.

A 1955 convertible operated by Harold A. Walderhaug, 832 Bradshaw Ave., struck a parked 1955 four-door sedan owned by William R. Drane, 816 Bradshaw Ave., officers said.

Headed upgrade, Walderhaug said he was forced to swerve when a downbound vehicle crowded into his lane. Walderhaug said he applied the brakes as he swerved and his car moved to the right and hit Drane's auto. There was damage to the right front fender, bumper and steering mechanism of Walderhaug's car and the left rear fender and door of Drane's auto, officers said.

Georgia Tech had three straight unbeaten football seasons under Coach John W. Heisman.

Hays To Address Meeting On Nov. 5

Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Flushing, 18th Ohio District congressman, will be principal speaker at a Democratic rally Saturday, Nov. 5, at the party's city campaign headquarters in the former Trotter Building on Dresden Ave., one of the final meetings before the Nov. 8 general election.

Announcement of plans for the rally was made Tuesday night when the Men's Democratic Club met in the campaign headquarters. Luncheon will be served, James Flasco, chairman, said.

Ben Barrett of Salem, nominee for state representative, addressed the meeting last night. He pledged support of plans for the Lake Erie-Ohio River Highway, which would link East Liverpool and Ashtabula. Plans already have been made for construction of the first stages of the four-lane road.

The club decided to enter the UN Day parade here Monday, Oct. 24. Flasco announced the group will meet every Tuesday night until the election. Campaign material such as lapel buttons, bumper stickers and hats is available at the headquarters, he announced.

Where Gas Is Available...

99 of Every 100 New Homes Are Heated by GAS!

Yes, Natural Gas is by far the most popular for home heating. Where it's available, fresh air Gas Heat is being installed in 99% of the new homes being built today. Here's why:

Economy. Gas is the cheapest way to heat your home. You pay for fuel only — no hidden operating costs — and thrifty Gas keeps fuel costs down. Gas is piped to your home underground and requires no bulky, expensive tanks or bins for on-the-premises storage. You save with low-cost, long-lasting Gas equipment, too.

Comfort. You get maximum home heating comfort with an automatic Gas central heating system. Air is heated to the desired temperature, then gently circulated in every room of your home. Gas Heat also assures a constant supply of filtered, fresh air. And, Gas burns silently without odor.

Convenience. A Modern Gas Furnace is the last word in automatic heating. A simple flick of the dial sets your thermostat for the season. You relax in comfort, without a heating care . . . . no furnace tending . . . no ashes to remove . . . no remembering to order fuel . . . no fuel storage problems. And, with dependable, speedy Gas on the job, you have no worries over sudden weather changes.

Cleanliness. Only Natural Gas burns so clean — no smoke, soot, or oily grime. And it burns completely! There's less housework, more leisure, when you heat with Gas . . . fewer bills for cleaning and re-decorating the interior of your home.

Dependability. Gas is the only fuel delivered to your home via underground pipeline, safe from weather hazards. It's completely dependable . . . ready when you need it . . . paid for after it's used.

Safety. Gas, according to statistics compiled and published year after year by The National Fire Protection Association, enjoys an enviable record of safety, unmatched by any other ordinary fuel, including electricity.

Cimoli, Weiss At Waterford . . .

What do an outfielder for the Pittsburgh Pirates and the general manager of the New York Yankees do on a day off from the World Series?

With all the tension created by the current playoff for the world title, they can't be expected to spend it in an empty ball park.

If you had been looking for Gino Cimoli, the Pirate outfielder, or George M. Weiss, general manager of the Yankees, you would have found them at Waterford Park enjoying a day at the races Tuesday. However, they were not together.

We found Cimoli reclining in a chair in the upper deck of the Waterford Park clubhouse Tuesday, diligently trying to pick the winner of the sixth race.

And like Joe Adcock of the Milwaukee Braves, who we ran into last week at the local track, Cimoli proved a real judge of horseflesh. He said he liked Jack O'Diamonds in the sixth and sure enough the horse won and paid $11.20, $6.60 and $5.40.

But we really ran into a real sharpshooter in Weiss, who seems to know his horses as well as his ballplayers.

Asked about his luck, Weiss — on the first floor of the clubhouse— replied: "I have had the last three."

'Odds Don't Mean A Thing' . . .

GETTING back to Cimoli, the Pirate outfielder who has filled in quite adequately in the series for the injured Bob Skinner, said "those 5-1 odds in favor of the Pirates winning the Series don't mean a thing."

"Those Yankees could come right back and win two straight. We did it didn't we?

"We don't sell those Yankees short at anytime. But I don't believe they are that much better than us as those scores of 10-0 and 16-3."

"We have followed a pattern in the Series like we did during the regular season," Gino said.

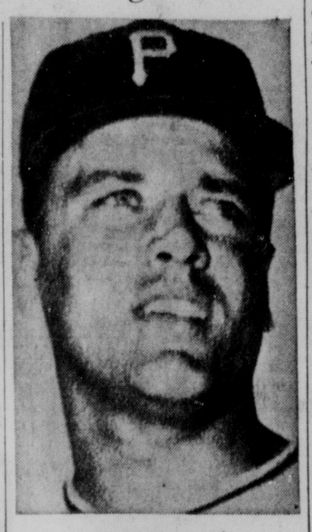

"We were behind by a game after Saturday, but came right back and won them the hard way. We didn't have any 10-0 scores."

Asked if he is scheduled to play today, Gino replied, "Bob Skinner is ready. And by the way, he's a great ballplayer. I'll be in there if Whitey Ford pitches, but Skinner will probably start if Bob Turley goes for the Yanks."

Manager Danny Murtaugh alternated Skinner and Cimoli during the regular season.

We asked Weiss later about the starting pitcher and the Yankee GM said "there is no doubt in my mind that Casey will start Turley."

Questioned about the Yankee pitching in New York, Cimoli replied: "My little girl could be a star pitcher in Yankee Stadium. Those afternoon shadows mean everything."

GINO CIMOLI

"A batter has a hard time seeing the ball. Just ask any catcher and they'll tell you they know what's coming but sometimes they still can't see it."

Many of the Pirate players complained about the heavy shadows after the first game in New York Saturday.

Weiss Was Very Confident . . .

WEISS is still confident of the Yankees. He said, "Look back to 1958. We trailed the Braves three games, but came back to win the Series."

"I think we got some bad breaks, especially the close call on Yogi Berra at first base in Sunday's game and a play at second base in which a Pirate runner was ruled safe."

Weiss also came up with a classic remark when it was mentioned that Pittsburgh fans were going completely crazy over their team.

The man from New York said, "That's the difference of winning a pennant every two years instead of every 33 years." Meaning the Yankee fans take their pennant winning New York teams in stride since they have had a steady diet of 18 world championship teams and 24 American League pennants.

Casey Irked About Not Having His Own Office

PITTSBURGH (AP) —Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees is irked because he has no office in the visitors' clubhouse at Forbes Field. After each series game, Casey has to go to Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh's office to talk to newsmen.

Four girls who work at Forbes Field haven't seen any of the series games. They work for Bankers Lithographing Co., which occupies space under part of the grandstand.

The girls got to watch the Pirates work out Tuesday. One of them mentioned "Virdon Law." The Pirates have no such player. They have a Bill Virdon and a Vernon Law.

Stengel was watching his squad work out when a newsman asked him about the report that somebody had burned the word "Pitt" in his front lawn at Glendale, Calif.

"If they bank with me, they can burn down a little more," said Case, who is president of a bank in his home town.

The longest workout Elroy Face had all season was a four-inning chore at Los Angeles July 20. The Pittsburgh relief ace finally lost an 11-inning game 7-5.

It will be "Porky the Pig" pitching for Pittsburgh today with "Crane," "Sleepy," "Vinegar," "Casper the Ghost," "Skin Head," and "The Baron" in the bullpen.

Translated from the Pirate book of nicknames, this means Bob Friend will be pitching with Fred Green, Joe Gibbon, Wilmer Mizell, George Witt, Tom Cheney and Elroy Face in the bullpen.

Series Memories

1929 — The A's scored 10 runs in the seventh inning to overcome an 8-0 deficit and defeated the Cubs 10-8.

1925 — Vic Aldridge pitched an eight-hitter and Clyde Barnhart drove in two runs as the Pirates beat the Senators 6-3.

1923 — Casey Stengel's seventh-inning homer and Art Nehf's six-hit pitching gave the Giants a 1-0 victory over the Yanks.

1920 — Stan Coveleski's five-hitter enabled the Indians to blank the Dodgers 3-0 and win the series, five games to two.

Pittsburgh Eyes First Title Since 1925

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh can wrap up its first world championship since 1925 today by beating the desperate New York Yankees in the sixth World Series game at spacious Forbes Field.

Bob Friend, winner of 18 games in the regular season but a loser to the Yanks in the second game, was Manager Danny Murtaugh's choice to complete the gallant comeback by the fighting Bucs. Everybody on the staff, except Vern Law, was available for bullpen duty.

Casey Stengel leaned toward Whitey Ford, his experienced lefty, to bail out the Yanks in their backs-to-the-wall situation. Ford pitched a shutout Saturday. Bob Turley, well rested since whipping the Pirates last Thursday, also was primed for duty, along with the rest of the staff.

Stengel's lineup was subject to last-minute changes. He was expected to play Yogi Berra in left field, Clete Boyer on third base and Elston Howard as catcher. If Stengel used Ford, Murtaugh would shift from catcher Smoky Burgess to Hal Smith.

Fair, warm weather was on tap, with the temperature due to hit 75 by the time the crowd of 37,000 had settled down in the ancient ball park.

The Pirates were favored at 4-1 to win the series, although the Yankees were picked at 6-5 for today's game.

If the Yankees square the series, the seventh game will be played in the same park Thursday afternoon with Law pitching for the Pirates and rookie Bill Stafford the likely starter for the Yanks.

Mickey Mantle, who needed only one more homer to match Babe Ruth's all-time series record of 15, was hobbled by a recurrence of the groin injury he suffered in late season. Mantle took a few cuts Tuesday when the club worked out after the Pirates' drill but did no running.

The Yankees appeared grimly determined to get back into this series with big money riding on every pitch.

"My men are not dead," said Stengel. "We may not talk too much but we're pretty good, too. We've been going at a pretty good speed for a month—until the last two games. I hope we're a little alive for you."

Mantle Plays Despite Pain From Injury

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ask a Yankee how many times Mickey Mantle has played when he was hurting, really hurting, not just bothered by the chronic ailments which have become almost a normal condition.

Ask Bobby Richardson, for instance, while you watch the Mick grimace, grunt and run out of the batting cage, somehow managing not to limp despite a painful groin injury, in an off-day workout before today's sixth game of the World Series.

"I'd say quite a bit," said Richardson. "But it's difficult to really tell because Mickey isn't one to complain about anything. You never hear it from him, but you know it has to hurt."

Ask Mantle himself, and you won't get the answer. In typical fashion, he shrugged off the present groin ailment, a painful strain he tried to cover up, playing Monday's fifth game in spite of it.

Mickey denied he had suffered the strain in a pregame warmup. "I woke up with it Monday morning," he said. "I don't know how it happened."

Back in the dugout, Manager Casey Stengel was watching. "I told him to take it easy," he said, "so he can be ready.

"But you watched him play in that fifth game, and you see they (Pittsburgh pitchers) were pretty careful with him. How many times he get a walk? Three in that fifth game? How many home runs he hit so far? Three? How many home runs he hit in all his series? Fourteen? And what's Ruth's record? Fifteen."

Salano Scores Upset In Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Salano, owned by Sant Amos of Scio (Harrison County), upset pre-race favorite Widoway Direct to win the featured seventh race at Scioto Downs Tuesday night.

Driven by Bob Albaugh, the bay gelding came from sixth at the head of the stretch to win by a length the $600 class C pace in 2:06 1-5.

Salano returned $18.80.

Brown Runs Normal Again

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fullback Jim Brown, who was bothered by an ankle injury in the game against the Pittsburgh Steelers here Oct. 2, is running normally again.

That was the good news for the Cleveland Browns coming out of their first practice of the week Tuesday in preparation for Sunday's game with the Dallas Cowboys in Dallas. The Browns were idle last Sunday.

"He looked like himself again," said Coach Paul Brown, referring to his star fullback. "That ankle that was touched up seems to be completely well.

"That layoff may have come at a good time. Jim wouldn't have been up to par and Milt Plum's bruised ribs were giving him trouble last week."

The coach said Plum is in good condition now.

"In fact everybody seems back to normal," he added. "Now our problem is to stay that way."

Because of the layoff, Jim Brown has some catching up to do to become the National Football League's ground gaining leader. This is the first time since he broke into pro football in 1957 that he has not held that distinction.

Jim Taylor of the Green Bay Packers moved out in front last Sunday with a total of 281 yards. He has an average of 5.6 yards per carry.

Brown is in second place with 240 yards and a 5.6 average for two games. Bobby Mitchell of the Browns is third with 208 yards and a 6.9 average.

Coach Brown describes the Dallas Cowboys as "just another Giant team."

Tom Landry, former defensive specialist for the New York Giants, is now head coach of the Cowboys and is using much the same style of defense and offense as does the New York team.

The Yankees appeared grimly determined to get back into this series with big money riding on every pitch.

"My men are not dead," said Stengel. "We may not talk too much but we're pretty good, too. We've been going at a pretty good speed for a month—until the last two games. I hope we're a little alive for you."

Mantle Plays Despite Pain From Injury

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ask a Yankee how many times Mickey Mantle has played when he was hurting, really hurting, not just bothered by the chronic ailments which have become almost a normal condition.

Ask Bobby Richardson, for instance, while you watch the Mick grimace, grunt and run out of the batting cage, somehow managing not to limp despite a painful groin injury, in an off-day workout before today's sixth game of the World Series.

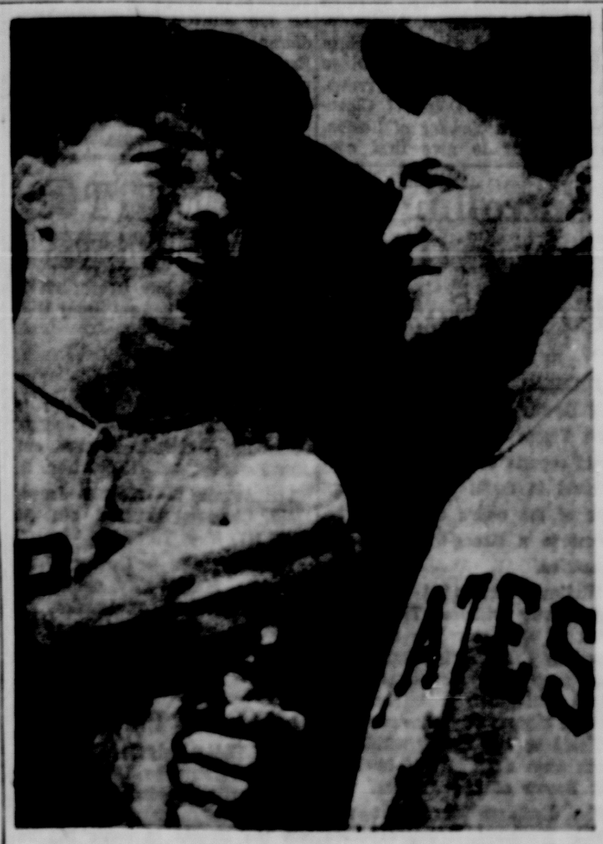

"I'd say quite a bit," said Richardson. "But it's difficult to really tell because Mickey isn't one to complain about anything. You never hear it from him, but you know it has to hurt."

Ask Mantle himself, and you won't get the answer. In typical fashion, he shrugged off the present groin ailment, a painful strain he tried to cover up, playing Monday's fifth game in spite of it.

Mickey denied he had suffered the strain in a pregame warmup. "I woke up with it Monday morning," he said. "I don't know how it happened."

Back in the dugout, Manager Casey Stengel was watching. "I told him to take it easy," he said, "so he can be ready.

"But you watched him play in that fifth game, and you see they (Pittsburgh pitchers) were pretty careful with him. How many times he get a walk? Three in that fifth game? How many home runs he hit so far? Three? How many home runs he hit in all his series? Fourteen? And what's Ruth's record? Fifteen."

PITCHER Bob Friend (left) may be telling manager Danny Murtaugh how he hopes to clinch the 1960 World Series in the sixth-game starting assignment today in Pittsburgh. Yankees will counter with Whitey Ford or Bob Turley. (UPI Telephoto)

Salano Scores Upset In Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Salano, owned by Sant Amos of Scio (Harrison County), upset pre-race favorite Widoway Direct to win the featured seventh race at Scioto Downs Tuesday night.

Driven by Bob Albaugh, the bay gelding came from sixth at the head of the stretch to win by a length the $600 class C pace in 2:06 1-5.

Salano returned $18.80.

Mississippi State's first bowl game resulted in a 13-12 Orange Bowl defeat at the hands of Duquesne in 1937.

Brown Runs Normal Again

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fullback Jim Brown, who was bothered by an ankle injury in the game against the Pittsburgh Steelers here Oct. 2, is running normally again.

That was the good news for the Cleveland Browns coming out of their first practice of the week Tuesday in preparation for Sunday's game with the Dallas Cowboys in Dallas. The Browns were idle last Sunday.

"He looked like himself again," said Coach Paul Brown, referring to his star fullback. "That ankle that was touched up seems to be completely well.

"That layoff may have come at a good time. Jim wouldn't have been up to par and Milt Plum's bruised ribs were giving him trouble last week."

The coach said Plum is in good condition now.

"In fact everybody seems back to normal," he added. "Now our problem is to stay that way."

Because of the layoff, Jim Brown has some catching up to do to become the National Football League's ground gaining leader. This is the first time since he broke into pro football in 1957 that he has not held that distinction.

Jim Taylor of the Green Bay Packers moved out in front last Sunday with a total of 281 yards. He has an average of 5.6 yards per carry.

Brown is in second place with 240 yards and a 5.6 average for two games. Bobby Mitchell of the Browns is third with 208 yards and a 6.9 average.

Coach Brown describes the Dallas Cowboys as "just another Giant team."

Su Mac Lad Captures 5th In Row At Yonkers

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP)—Su Mac Lad won his fifth straight victory at Yonkers Raceway Tuesday night by running the $64,300 Gotham Trot in 3:11. Great Lullwater was second and Senator Frost third after Steamin' Demon was set back from third.

Casey Irked About Not Having His Own Office

PITTSBURGH (AP) —Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees is irked because he has no office in the visitors' clubhouse at Forbes Field. After each series game, Casey has to go to Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh's office to talk to newsmen.

Four girls who work at Forbes Field haven't seen any of the series games. They work for Bankers Lithographing Co., which occupies space under part of the grandstand.

The girls get to watch the Pirates work out Tuesday. One of them mentioned "Virdon Law." The Pirates have no such player. They have a Bill Virdon and a Vernon Law.

Stengel was watching his squad work out when a newsman asked him about the report that somebody had burned the word "Pitt" in his front lawn at Glendale, Calif.

"If they bank with me, they can burn down a little more," said Case, who is president of a bank in his home town.

The longest workout Elroy Face had all season was a four-inning chore at Los Angeles July 20. The Pittsburgh relief ace finally lost an 11-inning game 7-6.

It will be "Porky the Pig" pitching for Pittsburgh today with "Crane," "Sleepy," "Vinegar," "Casper the Ghost," "Skin Head," and "The Baron" in the bullpen.

Translated from the Pirate book of nicknames, this means Bob Friend will be pitching with Fred Green, Joe Gibbon, Wilmer Mizell, George Witt, Tom Cheney and Elroy Face in the bullpen.

Announcer Dies At 72

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Basil Ruysdael, 72, who gave up opera stardom for careers as a leading radio announcer and actor, died Tuesday of complications following surgery. He was once a leading basso at New York's Metropolitan Opera House but quit in 1918 for a career on the New York stage. Later he was announcer for the Hit Parade and Jack Benny radio shows.

Series Memories

1929 — The A's scored 10 runs in the seventh inning to overcome an 8-0 deficit and defeated the Cubs 10-8.

1935 — Vic Aldridge pitched an eight-hitter and Clyde Barnhart drove in two runs as the Pirates beat the Senators 6-3.

1923 — Casey Stengel's seventh-inning homer and Art Nehf's six-hit pitching gave the Giants a 1-0 victory over the Yanks.

1920 — Stan Coveleski's five-hitter enabled the Indians to blank the Dodgers 3-0 and win the series, five games to two.

National League Talks Expansion

Houston Seeks Franchise

By JOE REICHLER

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The National League has taken the first concrete step toward expansion by virtually assuring Houston of a franchise for 1962.

The American League is expected to keep pace with its older rival by granting a franchise to Dallas-Ft. Worth.

Formal action on the Houston application headed by Craig Cullinan and George Kirksey, is scheduled for next Monday in Chicago. The American League has set no definite meeting date, but undoubtedly will convene soon.

Warren Giles, president of the National League, said action also will be taken on applications by New York, and "other cities." He declined to identify the others. New York, represented by Dwight (Pete) Davis Jr.'s Continental League group, made its formal application 10 days ago.

"We're going to do something definitive at our meeting in Chicago," said Giles. "We've delayed long enough. We want to make progress. We're not going to drag our feet any longer. I don't know whether we will approve one or two cities, but I believe Houston will get the necessary majority (six votes) if they've made the progress they've indicated."

With their ninth teams virtually accounted for, the two majors were looking at opposite ends of the country for their 10th teams—the National seeking a return to New York, and the American hoping to move into Los Angeles.

Each league committed itself at an August meeting, agreeing to add two teams as a compromise measure that dissolved the Continental League.

Of the two, the American appears to be facing the more difficult task.

A majority of American League club owners, feeling they have been steadily losing prestige because of the National's absorption of the more attractive territories, insist they must have a share of the lush Los Angeles area. They face a major obstacle in Walter O'Malley, head of the Dodgers.

O'Malley has stated his opposition to an American League invasion of Los Angeles, at least until Chavez Ravine, his dream stadium, is completed. Construction plans, continually stymied and revised, now call for completion in 1962 at the earliest.

The American League camp is split. One faction, headed by Hank Greenberg of Chicago, is stumping for a West Coast franchise and is even considering San Diego as a possibility. The other group, headed by Nate Dolan of Cleveland and Tom Yawkey of Boston, would prefer to give first consideration to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The American Leaguers are trying to conceal their chagrin in losing a chance for a monopoly in the virgin Texas territory such as the National has in California.

It was the AL's hope to lasso Houston and Dallas-Ft. Worth, thereby creating a natural rivalry. But following the NL's quick action, a spokesman said: "We prefer Dallas - Ft. Worth over Houston."

The major obstacle confronting all applicants for big league franchises is a stadium. Both Texas cities have approved bond issues for the construction of huge stadiums. New York City's Board of Estimate has approved an appropriation for preliminary plans for a stadium. Minneapolis has a 22,000-seat stadium which will be enlarged to seat 40,000.

Youngstown Line Will Average 200 Venditti Tells Nonpareil Members

Youngstown Rayen will field an experienced line averaging 200-pounds from end to end, and a set of fast, light backs against 11th ranked East Liverpool Friday night, Coach Lou Venditti told the Blue and White Nonpareil Club Tuesday night in the YMCA.

The Youngstowners (3-1) lost their only game of the season to undefeated Niles, a team ranked fifth in the state.

Rayen's ends weigh in at 190 and 180 pounds, the tackles, 225 and 250, the guards, 175 and 180, and the center, 165. They outweigh the Potter line considerably, Venditti told the club.

Meanwhile, the Potters undergo drills in preparation for the Patterson Field encounter with the team in its poorest physical shape of the year, Venditti said. The situation is comparable to the aftermath of last year's bruising battle with Steubenville Catholic Central when Salem was the next opponent.

Venditti paid tribute to the determination of the Potter squad in discussing last week's victory over Bellaire St. John's. "We beat a great ball club," Venditti said.

Ralph Musuraca, president, conducted business and reported on a dinner meeting with ELHS officials, and others from East Junior High and Westgate Junior High on possibilities of the club sponsoring a football game between the two schools this year. In order that athletics in the two junior highs may be kept in the proper perspective, sponsorship of the proposed game was declined the club. East Junior High will play its home games soon on a field in East End instead of at Patterson Field.

The next meeting was set for Tuesday night at 8 in the YMCA.

Woman Ignores Court Hearing In State Police Case

CHARLESTON (AP) — The woman whose case led to the indictment of State Police Supt. Hazen Fair for false swearing has not shown up in court as directed.

Jewell Ellis, the woman, was indicted by the same Kanawha County grand jury as Fair and on the same day, last Friday. The indictment against her was for embezzling about $700 from the State Police division of motor vehicles inspection last summer when she was in charge there.

Fair appeared before the grand jury to give testimony about her case. The indictment returned against him said that he denied responsibility for the way it was handled, which was, allegedly, by letting her off without prosecution after she agreed to return the money.

Fair is going to make his plea Oct. 21. There will be a trial if the plea is innocent.

The Ellis woman, who lived in Clendenin at the time she was a State Police employe, was to have appeared Monday to answer to her indictment. She did not. Asst. Pros. James B. McIntyre said he understood she now lives in Colorado.

Like Fair, Orval Q. Schoonover, State Road Commission maintenance supervisor in Clay County, will make his plea Oct. 21. He, too, is charged with false swearing. The charge against him grew out of testimony he gave before the State Crime Commission when it was investigating alleged payroll padding.

In a dispatch from its Washington bureau, the Observer said the Republican presidential candidate's office in Washington reported any announcement of a whistle-stop tour is not ready.

The train, the dispatch said, would leave Washington on Oct. 24. The schedule outlined in the dispatch called for stops in seven states including Ohio.

Controlling Interest Of Tigers Sold

By JERRY GREEN

DETROIT (AP) — President Bill Dewitt's future with the Detroit Tigers — bleak for a week amid reports he'd be fired — remained in doubt today following sale of the club's controllnig interest to a strong-thinking radio executive.

Whatever action is taken on the heavily criticized Tiger president of one year has been delayed by the surprise transaction that gave John E. Fetzer command of the Detroit Baseball Co. Fetzer, already the principal owner, said he was buying additional stock from a group lead by Kenyon Brown of Los Angeles.

The discharge of Dewitt was widely predicted. It was expected the remaining two years of his contract would have been bought up with Tiger owners paying about $100,000 for the release.

But Dewitt may remain as general manager.

"We'll have to decide about a general manager when we come to it," said Fetzer after he announced the deal that will give him two-thirds of the Tiger stock.

Fetzer, along with radio executive Fred Knorr, whose group retains one-third interest, have been critical of Dewitt's rule. They voiced their displeasure after Joe Gordon quit Oct. 3 as manager despite a 1961 contract.

Dewitt also was in disfavor with many owners because the Tigers finished sixth in the American League, lowest since 1953.

Fetzer, 59-year-old Kalamazoo, Mich., radio mongul, was one of the original purchasers of the club when it was bought from the estate of Walter O. Briggs for $5.5 million in 1956. There have been three club presidents since and Fetzer will be the fourth.

Duck hunters will do well to get all the information regarding the waterfowl and coot season before heading for the nearest lake, stream or swamp when the season comes in on Oct. 20.

The season will open at 12 noon, eastern standard time, and will close at sunset. Also keep in mind that redhead and canvasback ducks may not be taken this season. Also, only one woodduck and one hooded merganser may be included in the daily bag limit of three ducks. After the first day of open season you will not be permitted more than two days legal bag limit at any time.

HERE IS another section of the law regarding wounded, live migratory game birds that must be obeyed: "every migratory game bird wounded by hunting and reduced to possession by the hunger shall be immediately killed and become a part of the daily bag limit".

On several occasions in the past, I have known hunters to wound a duck and take it home to keep as a pet or to be released when it recuperated. So, keep in mind, a wounded duck must be killed immediately before you place it in your hunting coat.

I have a few cards giving the sunrise and sunset time which I will be glad to pass along to the hunters on a first-come-first-served basis. None will be mailed unless the hunter requesting one of the cards incloses a self-addressed and stamped envelope.

AREA DUCK hunters know about the concentration of local hatched ducks in one of our swampy sections in this county.

This is not a public hunting area and every foot of the land is locally owned. Last season the shooting began at 11:30 a. m., which was a state and federal violation.

This year, sufficient enforcement officials will be on hand and all hunters caught in the act of "jumping the gun" will be cited to the proper county court.

The "gun-jumping" was caused by hunters attempting to get to their blinds or to get within shooting range of the ducks, causing the ducks to take off before shooting hours.

The proper thing for the hunters to do is stay away from the ducks until time to walk in and begin shooting. The most wanted violator is the hunter who fires the first shot that touches off the barrage that follows.

There will be two kind of duck hunters out after ducks on the first day, the "caught" and the "uncaught".

The ones caught jumping the gun will be given a citation. Don't yell too long and too loud if you get a citation for violating the law. You don't have to violate a law because "everybody else was doing

Bellino Is Labeled As Navy's One-Man Gang On Gridiron

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — On the Navy football team Joe Bellino does everything but call signals and placekick.

"He could do these too, but we don't want to spread him too thin," Coach Wayne Hardin says with a grin.

Bellino, already an all-time Navy gridiron hero for his record three touchdown performance in last year's Army game, is regarded around here as the greatest thing since the development of the Polaris missile.

And he's started his senior year with a whoosh that may rank him among the nation's greatest backs before the year is over. Certainly Navy has not had a halfback like him since Buzz Borries cavorted for the Middies in 1934.

The 181-pound left half from Winchester, Mass., has led Navy's offense for the past two seasons, strictly on his explosive running power, but injuries kept him from reaching his full potential until late last season. This year Hardin is calling on all his triple-threat abilities and hoping for a full season of play.

In Navy's opener against Boston College Bellino passed for one touchdown, ran for another, caught a pass for the third and ran for two extra points to account for all but two of Navy's points in a 22-7 victory.

He also punted for the first time in his collegiate career, averaging 51 yards on three booming quick kicks.

The following Saturday against Villanova, Bellino scored two touchdowns in a 41-7 rout of Villanova and impressed President Eisenhower, a former Army halfback.

Bellino thus bore out Hardin's quip at a pre - season press conference that Navy's offense this year would consist of "handing the ball to Bellino."

Faced with serious quarterback problems, the coach has designed a pass or run option play around his ace back. Bellino threw a touchdown strike to flanking right half John Prichard the first time he used it this season. The play covered 64 yards.

His quick kicks were from the same option series and Coach Ernie Hefferle of B. C. said after the game: "Bellino, especially with that option play, is just about the best weapon in college football today."

As a runner he is gifted with a fine sense of timing, deceptive speed and exceptional balance which requires a direct, smashing tackle to bring him down or throw him off stride.

Navy's dependence on him makes Bellino a marked man but Hardin thinks the stocky 5-foot-9 senior is tough enough to survive the physical punishment and finally realize that big year.

"This boy is the best football player I've ever seen," his coach says. "He can do anything and he'll deliver for you when you need it most. He not only runs, passes and kicks, he also makes tackles all over the field and breaks up his share of passes.

"He's popular with his teammates and the brigade as a player and as a person. Bellino is an All-America on and off the field."

Bellino came to Navy after making all-state in Massachusetts in football, basketball and baseball at Winchester High School. A catcher on the Navy baseball team, he has turned down bonus offers from three major league clubs to stay at the academy, play some more football and plan a service career.

Bellino Is Labeled As Navy's One-Man Gang On Gridiron

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — On the Navy football team Joe Bellino does everything but call signals and placekick.

"He could do these too, but we don't want to spread him too thin," Coach Wayne Hardin says with a grin.

Bellino, already an all-time Navy gridiron hero for his record three touchdown performance in last year's Army game, is regarded around here as the greatest thing since the development of the Polaris missile.

And he's started his senior year with a whoosh that may rank him among the nation's greatest backs before the year is over. Certainly Navy has not had a halfback like him since Buzz Borries cavorted for the Middies in 1934.

The 181-pound left half from Winchester, Mass., has led Navy's offense for the past two seasons, strictly on his explosive running power, but injuries kept him from reaching his full potential until late last season. This year Hardin is calling on all his triple-threat abilities and hoping for a full season of play.

In Navy's opener against Boston College Bellino passed for one touchdown, ran for another, caught a pass for the third and ran for two extra points to account for all but two of Navy's points in a 22-7 victory.

He also punted for the first time in his collegiate career, averaging 51 yards on three booming quick kicks.

The following Saturday against Villanova, Bellino scored two touchdowns in a 41-7 rout of Villanova and impressed President Eisenhower, a former Army halfback.

Bellino thus bore out Hardin's quip at a pre-season press conference that Navy's offense this year would consist of "handing the ball to Bellino."

Faced with serious quarterback problems, the coach has designed a pass or run option play around his ace back. Bellino threw a touchdown strike to flanking right half John Prichard the first time he used it this season. The play covered 64 yards.

His quick kicks were from the same option series and Coach Ernie Hefferle of B. C. said after the game: "Bellino, especially with that option play, is just about the best weapon in college football today."

As a runner he is gifted with a fine sense of timing, deceptive speed and exceptional balance which requires a direct, smashing tackle to bring him down or throw him off stride.

Navy's dependence on him makes Bellino a marked man but Hardin thinks the stocky 5-foot-9 senior is tough enough to survive the physical punishment and finally realize that big year.

"This boy is the best football player I've ever seen," his coach says. "He can do anything and he'll deliver for you when you need it most. He not only runs, passes and kicks, he also makes tackles all over the field and breaks up his share of passes.

"He's popular with his teammates and the brigade as a player and as a person. Bellino is an All-America on and off the field."

Bellino came to Navy after making all-state in Massachusetts in football, basketball and baseball at Winchester High School. A catcher on the Navy baseball team, he has turned down bonus offers from three major league clubs to stay at the academy, play some more football and plan a service career.

GE, Strikers Set New Peace Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—The federal government's top mediator will head new peace discussions Thursday between the General Electric Co. and the striking International Union of Electrical Workers. (IUE).

Mediators met for the third time with both sides Tuesday and reported no progress in settling the strike, now in its second week. The conciliation team already on the scene was joined Tuesday by Walter A. Maggiolo, national director of federal mediation.

The IUE called a strike of its 77,000 members in 55 GE plants Oct. 2. Production was at a virtual standstill in GE's key plant at Schenectady, N.Y., and was hampered at Syracuse, N.Y., Lynn and Pittsfield, Mass., and other points.

While much of the picket line skirmishes that marked the early days of the strike have diminished, some violence was reported at widely scattered plants.

The IUE has filed two charges of unfair labor practice against the company, and yesterday GE retaliated by filing with the National Labor Relations Board a similar charge against the union. The company accused the IUE of refusing to bargin "in good faith."

The union is seeking a two-step pay raise of 3½ per cent a year over two years, plus continuation of a cost-of-living clause and other benefits.

GE has offered 3 per cent immediately, plus 4 per cent in April 1962. The company also wants to eliminate the cost-of-living clause.

'No Price Hike,' Says President Of G.E. Firm

LYNN, Mass. (AP) — General Electric Co.'s president has closed the door on any strike settlement that would mean price increases.

Robert Paxton, president of the nation's biggest electrical manufacturer, told an outdoor gathering of supervisory, technical and clerical employes at GE's River Works Tuesday:

"We are in the midst of another and greater strike right now—a buyer's strike.

"We cannot afford a settlement that will force us to raise prices because customers have signalled us loudly and clearly that they are not going to pay the extra costs —especially when they can buy foreign imports so much cheaper in many cases."

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

100 Pounds Is Hefty Challenge

Is it harder to start reducing when you have a mountain of weight to take off ... something like 100 pounds of excess? Yes! For one reason, when the goal is a long way off, or when it seems almost unattainable, it is difficult to get enthusiastic about starting. Any goal that seems to be out of reach you tend to put out of your mind.

By Ida Jean Kain

How do you respond to a challenge? Would it help you to reduce along with someone else? If so, tune in with this young mother. In the early summer, she wrote:

"If I could just get started reducing, everything would be fine ... but I have so much weight to lose — close to 100 pounds. I weigh 244 and I should weigh 150 pounds. I was wondering if it would be possible for others in my predicament to join forces and help each other?

—:—

"I NEED ENCOURAGEMENT. My family and my husband's family are very good at criticizing but very short on encouragement. They offer no help at all.

"I have many reasons for wanting to lose this excess weight. But I get nervous and then I eat ... mostly junk.

"I know it can be done. My health is fine except for being overweight. I was doing well at losing until my last pregnancy. When I found I was pregnant again, I got the 'I don't care' attitude and as a result I spited myself.

"My family consists of five children—four girls and this last one, a boy! My three oldest children will help after they see me start to lose. Being children they have been honest in how they feel about my being fat. You can't blame them for being honest.

"I would like to help someone else besides myself. I realize I have to do the work, but advice and encouragement from others would be gratefully accepted. I need help."

This letter arrived when I was on vacation, so I did not get in touch with this dieter until fall. When I talked with her via long distance telephone, I found she had already made that start and has lost 14 pounds, without pills or encouragement from us!

Wonderful! She has what it takes. It will be a real privilege to try to help her, and a joy to have her as our model dieter.

ALL THOSE who decide to grab hold of this opportunity to reduce along with this courageous dieter, send for the "Hunger Control Diet" and "Take your Measure." Be sure to include a self - addressed, long, stamped envelope with your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of the Review.

You should be checked over by your family doctor. Do not ask him for pills. Our model has reasoned that by accepting adult responsibility and reducing without pills, she will be in control and able to keep the pounds off. She is right!

Look for another progress report in two weeks.

2 District Girls Seek Queenship

Two area girls are among five candidates for Homecoming Queen at Mt. Union College at Alliance.

They are Sally Felger of East Palestine, a senior and member of the Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, and Mary Carson of Bergholz, a junior and member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Each sorority selected three candidates and then one was selected from each by a vote of fraternity men.

The students will vote today for the co-ed who will reign over homecoming activities Saturday.

The winner will be announced during halftime ceremonies at the Mt. Union-Ohio Wesleyan football game.

Bears Eat The Signs

SKYLAND, Va. (AP) — A Shenandoah National Park visitor suggested to rangers that the park's bears should be educated so they could read a sign saying: "Please don't eat the signs." The bears have been eating the park service signs, even when they're soaked in creosote. Barbed wire around the edges helps but rangers fear people will tear their clothes or stick a finger on the barbs.

The longest scoring play of the 1959 Big Ten football season was a 93-yard pass interception return by Michigan State halfback Bob Suci against Michigan.

Veterans Dinner Planned By Post

A committee to work with the auxiliary in completing arrangements for the annual Veterans Day dinner Nov. 12 was appointed by James Cregar, commander, at a meeting of American Legion Post 374 Monday night in the East End home.

Cregar appointed himself, Wayne Craig, first vice commander, Louis Krawiec, Robert Poynter, Robert Milne and William Sillance.

Cregar reported on the fall conference held Sunday at Orville Post 282. Staurt Luginduhl, state second vice commander, was guest speaker.

Cregar and Ray Kusick represented the post at a meeting held at City Hall a week ago to prepare for the city's observance of the 15th anniversary of the United Nations.

It was reported James Wallover of the post has been elected chef de gare of the Columbiana County 40 & 8 Society.

Membership was reported at 125. Twenty-five were present.

Israeli Farm Agent Views Apple Orchard

Isaac Sela is returning to Israel after a first-hand look at the apple producing operations of Hillcrest Farms near Chester.

A county agent in Israel, Sela visited Hillcrest Farms for a look at modern fruit grading, packing and storage operations.

Hillcrest Farms, one of the largest apple producing orchards in West Virginia, plants about 35 trees to the acre. Israeli farmers plant about 170 trees to the acre on their communal-type farms.

The Far East country grows about the same varieties of apples as America, but on dwarf rootstock. Israeli orchards also are irrigated, according to Oliver Johnson, county agricultural agent from New Cumberland. Sela visited the county last week.

School Students Conduct Election

Politics was the dominant conversation at East Liverpool High School today as the Blue and White parties chose nominees for class offices.

Similar to regular elections, each class was divided into the Blue and White parties and candidates for the offices circulated petitions. The Student Council supervises the election.

The nominees of each party will meet in a general election next Wednesday to select class officers. A mock presidential election will be held the same day.

OSU Sets Policy For Enrollments

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If Johnny or Susie's grades are keeping them in the bottom third of their high school classes, they needn't plan on entering Ohio State University in the fall quarter of 1961.

University officials announced —after approval by the trustees Monday—that this policy is effective next year. Summer enrollment will be encouraged, and such low ranking students also may enter Ohio State in the winter or spring quarters. Officials say the policy probably will help the students because they will not be entering when enrollment is heaviest, and thus can be assured of more guidance and counsel.

Undergraduate applicants from outside the state are admitted only when they rank in the top third of their classes.

Dear friends,

There is an apparent widespread lack of information about funeral costs. May we explain again that the cost depends entirely upon the tastes and desires of the family.

It need not be high. In fact, we earnestly advise against the purchase of funeral merchandise that might prove burdensome. And whatever the selection might be, our complete facilities and service are included.

Respectfully,

Richard R. Martin

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

100 Pounds Is Hefty Challenge

Is it harder to start reducing when you have a mountain of weight to take off ... something like 100 pounds of excess? Yes! For one reason, when the goal is a long way off, or when it seems almost unattainable, it is difficult to get enthusiastic about starting. Any goal that seems to be out of reach you tend to put out of your mind.

By Ida Jean Kain

How do you respond to a challenge? Would it help you to reduce along with someone else? If so, tune in with this young mother. In the early summer, she wrote:

"If I could just get started reducing, everything would be fine ... but I have so much weight to lose — close to 100 pounds. I weigh 244 and I should weigh 150 pounds. I was wondering if it would be possible for others in my predicament to join forces and help each other?

—:—

"I NEED ENCOURAGEMENT. My family and my husband's family are very good at criticizing but very short on encouragement. They offer no help at all.

"I have many reasons for wanting to lose this excess weight. But I get nervous and then I eat ... mostly junk.

"I know it can be done. My health is fine except for being overweight. I was doing well at losing until my last pregnancy. When I found I was pregnant again, I got the 'I don't care' attitude and as a result I spited myself.

"My family consists of five children—four girls and this last one, a boy! My three oldest children will help after they see me start to lose. Being children they have been honest in how they feel about my being fat. You can't blame them for being honest.

"I would like to help someone else besides myself. I realize I have to do the work, but advice and encouragement from others would be gratefully accepted. I need help."

This letter arrived when I was on vacation, so I did not get in touch with this dieter until fall. When I talked with her via long distance telephone, I found she had already made that start and has lost 14 pounds, without pills or encouragement from us!

Wonderful! She has what it takes. It will be a real privilege to try to help her, and a joy to have her as our model dieter.

ALL THOSE who decide to grab hold of this opportunity to reduce along with this courageous dieter, send for the "Hunger Control Diet" and "Take your Measure." Be sure to include a self - addressed, long, stamped envelope with your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of the Review.

You should be checked over by your family doctor. Do not ask him for pills. Our model has reasoned that by accepting adult responsibility and reducing without pills, she will be in control and able to keep the pounds off. She is right!

Look for another progress report in two weeks.

2 District Girls Seek Queenship

Two area girls are among five candidates for Homecoming Queen at Mt. Union College at Alliance.

They are Sally Felger of East Palestine, a senior and member of the Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, and Mary Carson of Bergholz, a junior and member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Each sorority selected three candidates and then one was selected from each by a vote of fraternity men.

The students will vote today for the co-ed who will reign over homecoming activities Saturday.

The winner will be announced during halftime ceremonies at the Mt. Union-Ohio Wesleyan football game.

Bears Eat The Signs

SKYLAND, Va. (AP) — A Shenandoah National Park visitor suggested to rangers that the park's bears should be educated so they could read a sign saying: "Please don't eat the signs." The bears have been eating the park service signs, even when they're soaked in creosote. Barbed wire around the edges helps but rangers fear people will tear their clothes or stick a finger on the barbs.

The longest scoring play of the 1959 Big Ten football season was a 93-yard pass interception return by Michigan State halfback Bob Suci against Michigan.

Veterans Dinner Planned By Post

A committee to work with the auxiliary in completing arrangements for the annual Veterans Day dinner Nov. 12 was appointed by James Cregar, commander, at a meeting of American Legion Post 274 Monday night in the East End home.

Cregar appointed himself, Wayne Craig, first vice commander, Louis Krawiec, Robert Poynter, Robert Milne and William Sillance.

Cregar reported on the fall conference held Sunday at Orville Post 282. Staurt Luginduhl, state second vice commander, was guest speaker.

Cregar and Ray Kusick represented the post at a meeting held at City Hall a week ago to prepare for the city's observance of the 18th anniversary of the United Nations.

It was reported James Wallover of the post has been elected chef de gare of the Columbiana County 40 & 8 Society.

Membership was reported at 125. Twenty-five were present.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

Purple Passions In Carthage

I haven't seen a movie heroine choose death to dishonor in a long, long time. Come of think of it, I've never seen it. Even when I was a kid that was considered pretty corny stuff. But, by George, there it was on "Rivak the Barbarian" the other night.

John Crosby

"Dance, little wildcat," said the villain with a leer that has not been seen in acting circles since the mauve decade. All this was taking place on a galley bound for Carthage.

Well, sire, she danced for the lustful fellow but when he tried to get her to go below for hanky panky, she kissed her brother — Jack Palance, lashed to the bulkheads, snarling and vowing vengeance — and jumped into the sea.

ALL THIS was part of a special that was to have been a series called "The Barbarians." NBC, after spending about a zillion dollars on it, abandoned the whole thing. Pity. It was quite funny.

The orgies were hilarious. (Know what they do at orgies, huh? They kiss girls. Lying down. Seen it with my own eyes.) And the dialogue. Delicious. "Rivak kisses the foot of no one — least of all that of a Carthaginian cat." Well spoken, I exclaimed.

I don't know why this seemed so ridiculous on the little screen. After all, Cecil B. DeMille made a fortune out of this kind of malarkey.

Of course, you might argue that Cecil B. did better malarkey but, frankly, I don't believe it. I think he did worse malarkey. I think malarkey, to be viable at all, must be as unabashedly preposterous as possible. Cecil B. DeMille had a genius for it.

AH, WELL! To pass on to other matters, Perry Como returned for his sixth season the other night with a very classy show. Goodman Ace was back as head writer and right away the show took on a polish, a finish and a shape that it didn't have last season.

But of course the star of the show is still very much Mr. Como, who is singing better than ever, moving even more easily from stool to guest star to center stage.

As he gets older and more assured, Mr. Como requires less and less assistance from his surroundings. He was at his most effective singing all by himself with a lectern in front of him, a stool under him, more or less ignoring the cameras and the studio audience, much like a fellow in a shower.

-:-

NOT THAT he didn't have distinguished assistance. Ethel Merman was there to shatter a glass.

It was an amusing conceit to try her piercing larynx on "Prisoner of Love," Mr. Como's very own song, while he endeavored to sing "I've Got Rhythm." ("I can't hear you from here," complained Miss Merman, who was sitting next to him.)

There were others. Shelley Berman, for example, who wasn't very funny. I'm a great Shelley Berman fan but he just didn't have it that night.

Also aboard, bless us every one, were Frankie Avalon and Fabian. The best thing I can say about this bit is that it was painless, an enormous surprise. Either they're getting more grown up or I'm getting younger. Or maybe it was because they didn't let them sing very much.

Mr. Como's shows are renowned for their openings and for their closings, which are monstrously ingenious, and this opening and this closing were wonderfully clever mixtures of tape and film.

The closing was a duet with Como in his theater and Ethel Merman driving in a taxicab to the Imperial Theater. Great!

-:-

DIRECTLY following Mr. Como came the man he admittedly patterns himself after — that aging gentleman of song, Bing Crosby.

The trouble here is that Mr. Crosby can't sing very well any more. Great style. Marvelous technique. But no voice to speak of. He reminds me of Dizzy Dean trying to pitch — on sheer cunning and experience — after his arm had gone.

Otherwise, it was a pleasant show. Crosby did "Mississippi Mud" with his boys, Dennis, Philip and Lindsay, a great sentimental number. An old radio bit with Johnny Mercer, including "In Behalf of the Visiting Firemen," was great fun.

Best of all was Rosemary Clooney. I think this girl sings better than anyone, male or female (now that Mr. Sinatra seems to have retired) and I wish we'd hear more of her. She had only one song all by herself, and it wasn't enough.

Navy Bans News On 'Polaris' Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —For the first time in nearly three years, newsmen will be barred from reporting a U.S. ballistic missile shot. The Navy offers no explanation why information will be withheld on a series of Polaris submarine launchings.

The atomic submarine Patrick Henry waits at nearby Port Canaveral to cruise submerged to an undisclosed position far out in the Atlantic. There it will begin a series of shots aimed at increasing the range of the Polaris missile.

The Navy said it will not inform the press in advance of the launchings, nor will it report test results.

When protesting newsmen asked why, the only answer was that the firings "will approximate operational conditions by elimination of certain restrictions necessarily imposed to protect populated areas."

The Polaris will have an initial operational range of 1,380 miles. The forthcoming shots are the first designed to boost this to the 1,725-mile range scheduled for an advanced version of the rocket by 1962.

The Navy denies speculation it is clamping secrecy on the submarine shots because it fears adverse publicity in case of failure. Project officials are pushing to have the Polaris system combat-ready in November, but many are concerned because four of the last five submarine-launched Polaris missiles failed.

Child Thief Coach Given Year Term

LISBON — Arthur Stanley Naylor, 61, was sentenced to a year in the County Jail Monday afternoon by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin for contributiong to the delinquency of his two children.

He allegedly coached them in thievery and instructed them on how to avoid giving any information if questioned by authorities.

Judge Tobin sentenced his daughter, 14, to the Girls Industrial School at Delaware after she was apprehended in East Liverpool several weeks ago for stealing $10 in a church and then refusing to give any information to the police or the County Welfare Department.

His son, 11, was apprehended here in Lisbon several days ago after he was observed inside the First Presbyterian Church office.

The boy was turned over to the welfare department.

Naylor was accused by Judge Tobin of "coaching his children to steal" and how not to give information to officials. A Pittsburgh address Naylor gave as his residence was checked and no one knew Naylor or the family, Judge Tobin said.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

Purple Passions In Carthage

I haven't seen a movie heroine choose death to dishonor in a long, long time. Come of think of it, I've never seen it. Even when I was a kid that was considered pretty corny stuff. But, by George, there it was on "Rivak the Barbarian" the other night.

John Crosby

"Dance, little wildcat," said the villain with a leer that has not been seen in acting circles since the mauve decade. All this was taking place on a galley bound for Carthage.

Well, sire, she danced for the lustful fellow but when he tried to get her to go below for hanky panky, she kissed her brother — Jack Palance, lashed to the bulkheads, snarling and vowing vengeance — and jumped into the sea.

ALL THIS was part of a special that was to have been a series called "The Barbarians." NBC, after spending about a zillion dollars on it, abandoned the whole thing. Pity. It was quite funny.

The orgies were hilarious. (Know what they do at orgies, huh? They kiss girls. Lying down. Seen it with my own eyes.) And the dialogue. Delicious. "Rivak kisses the foot of no one — least of all that of a Carthaginian cat." Well spoken, I exclaimed.

I don't know why this seemed so ridiculous on the little screen. After all, Cecil B. DeMille made a fortune out of this kind of malarkey.

Of course, you might argue that Cecil B. did better malarkey but, frankly, I don't believe it. I think he did worse malarkey. I think malarkey, to be viable at all, must be as unabashedly preposterous as possible. Cecil B. DeMille had a genius for it.

AH, WELL! To pass on to other matters, Perry Como returned for his sixth season the other night with a very classy show. Goodman Ace was back as head writer and right away the show took on a polish, a finish and a shape that it didn't have last season.

But of course the star of the show is still very much Mr. Como, who is singing better than ever, moving even more easily from stool to guest star to center stage.

As he gets older and more assured, Mr. Como requires less and less assistance from his surroundings. He was at his most effective singing all by himself with a lectern in front of him, a stool under him, more or less ignoring the cameras and the studio audience, much like a fellow in a shower.

-:-

NOT THAT he didn't have distinguished assistance. Ethel Merman was there to shatter a glass.

It was an amusing conceit to try her piercing larynx on "Prisoner of Love," Mr. Como's very own song, while he endeavored to sing "I've Got Rhythm." ("I can't hear you from here," complained Miss Merman, who was sitting next to him.)

There were others. Shelley Berman, for example, who wasn't very funny. I'm a great Shelley Berman fan but he just didn't have it that night.

Also aboard, bless us every one, were Frankie Avalon and Fabian. The best thing I can say about this bit is that it was painless, an enormous surprise. Either they're getting more grown up or I'm getting younger. Or maybe it was because they didn't let them sing very much.

Mr. Como's shows are renowned for their openings and for their closings, which are monstrously ingenious, and this opening and this closing were wonderfully clever mixtures of tape and film.

The closing was a duet with Como in his theater and Ethel Merman driving in a taxicab to the Imperial Theater. Great!

-:-

DIRECTLY following Mr. Como came the man he admittedly patterns himself after — that aging gentleman of song, Bing Crosby.

The trouble here is that Mr. Crosby can't sing very well any more. Great style. Marvelous technique. But no voice to speak of. He reminds me of Dizzy Dean trying to pitch — on sheer cunning and experience — after his arm had gone.

Otherwise, it was a pleasant show. Crosby did "Mississippi Mud" with his boys, Dennis, Philip and Lindsay, a great sentimental number. An old radio bit with Johnny Mercer, including "In Behalf of the Visiting Firemen," was great fun.

Best of all was Rosemary Clooney. I think this girl sings better than anyone, male or female (now that Mr. Sinatra seems to have retired) and I wish we'd hear more of her. She had only one song all by herself, and it wasn't enough.

Navy Bans News On 'Polaris' Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —For the first time in nearly three years, newsmen will be barred from reporting a U.S. ballistic missile shot. The Navy offers no explanation why information will be withheld on a series of Polaris submarine launchings.

The atomic submarine Patrick Henry waits at nearby Port Canaveral to cruise submerged to an undisclosed position far out in the Atlantic. There it will begin a series of shots aimed at increasing the range of the Polaris missile.

The Navy said it will not inform the press in advance of the launchings, nor will it report test results.

When protesting newsmen asked why, the only answer was that the firings "will approximate operational conditions by elimination of certain restrictions necessarily imposed to protect populated areas."

The Polaris will have an initial operational range of 1,380 miles. The forthcoming shots are the first designed to boost this to the 1,725-mile range scheduled for an advanced version of the rocket by 1962.

The Navy denies speculation it is clamping secrecy on the submarine shots because it fears adverse publicity in case of failure. Project officials are pushing to have the Polaris system combat-ready in November, but many are concerned because four of the last five submarine-launched Polaris missiles failed.

Telephones Try Patience

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Alexander Graham Bell did a great thing when he invented the telephone.

It served people apart. It brought them by wire closer together across county and continent.

It seemed for a while that the telephone was the greatest sociological instrument ever devised.

It made the world a universal "Hello."

There are those who now believe the telephone has an even greater future by marrying it to television. I don't mean to explore here the possibilities of pay-TV by wire.

What I mean to discuss is the possibility you can phone people and see them as you talk to them personally.

This prospect may sound like a fine scientific achievement, but I think its real appeal is to teenagers rather than grownups.

Teen-agers seem to have a fascination for each other's face and voice which to the average grown-up is repellent. They could use the teaming of electronic voice and electronic sight to enjoyment. No one else I know can.

The truth is that the telephone rather overdid its ability to say "Hello" to everybody and anybody.

Certainly, like the Pony Express and the telegraph, it was a dramatic victory in communications. But the better it got, the more problems the telephone created.

It became an instrument to invade the greatest and most indispensable communication a man can have—the communication of his own thought to himself, which needs no wires. But it does demand privacy.

The telephone is a great instrument of many purposes. It saves the housewife from walking to stores. It speeds business decisions. It is the voice of reach to friends. In an emergency it is a cry of help that brings quick aid.

It knits the lonely; it joins the gossips; it keeps, in occasional and needed reunion, the loyalties of farflung families.

But the telephone does other and more dismal things, too.

People you call up and would prefer not to hear you have to do so. People you don't want to hear from again have this invisible choice to your ear.

Strangers call you up and ask you to do things you don't want to.

Answering a telephone, which originally was a thrill, becomes in time a chore and a fear.

In business there is also a tendency toward putting a hired ear between your own ear and the phone. Anyone who picks up his own phone and answers it when it rings is behind the times.

I would phone up Dr. Alexander Graham Bell in heaven and complain about this except for one thing.

I'm sure the reply would be: "Dr. Bell is not available now. Can I take a message?"

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Sassy Child Upset By His Playmates

I get many letters about the boy, around five or six, whose playmates seem to gang up on him. In his frustration he seems to grow more aggressive toward other children and harder to live with at home. Writes an Ohio mother: "We are parents of a five-year-old boy, who, until this summer, was a sweet, good-natured little fellow, amiable and a pleasure to have around. "This summer, it seems, he has been on the fringe of the activities of his playmates — all five to six years old — and has been on the receiving end of teasing and pushing around. The days have been filled with screams and tears. Billy cries about something all the time.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"Billy has been hitting the boys and biting on the slightest provocation, and consequently he has been banished from most of the yards of his friends.

—:—

"AT HOME he is extremely sassy and, although he still obeys us, it is with mouthy reluctance. Every dinner hour starts with "I don't want any dinner. I won't get in my chair, etc.'

"If he is sent to his room and refused his dinner, he screams and kicks the door, throws his belongings around.

"When we take him out to visit relatives or friends, there is invariably a scene where Billy has struck or bitten a child.

"We have been very patient, talking and trying to explain things to him, trying to ignore the sassy remarks. We have resorted to spanking for displays of temper and striking the other children.

"His Dad is wonderful with him spends a lot of time with him —playing ball, wrestling, occasional fishing, etc. They do things together.

—:—

"BILLY'S BEEN checked by his pediatrician and found in good physical condition."

My reply in part:

Perhaps you could attract a few children his age to your home and spend some time studying him and helping him to adapt himself to them.

You can do a lot right in your own home. Make clear to him that if he doesn't want his dinner he doesn't need to eat it, but that if he leaves the table he can't come back to this meal and he can't have anything to eat until the next meal.

When he is most agitated, you should be most serene.

Don't explain so much. The more you talk, the more upset he gets and then you get upset, too.

When he strikes other children, assign him to sit in a chair, unamused, where you can see him, for 20 minutes. Do the same when he bites them.

But praise him when he is good, which is often.

Read a great deal to him. Have lots of fun with him.

My bulletin "Your Child and His Playmates" may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Michigan Town Limits Homes To 3 Cats Each

DETROIT (AP)—The Highland Park City Council has voted that no home may have more than three cats. Violators will be subject to a $50 fine and-or 90 days in jail.

The ruling came after Police Chief Dewey T. Schultz told the council of numerous complaints of cats causing disturbances. He said he found 27 cats in one home.

Syracuse played football 18 years before it met an intersectional rival. Then the Orange beat Michigan, 28 to 4, in 1908.

Steel Shows Better 'Tone'

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel market has a slightly better tone this week, Iron Age Magazine said today.

The publication attributed the improvement to "the inevitable end of inventory cutbacks, backed up by a small improvement in new orders."

However, the magazine said it now appeared that operations will hover in the 50 per cent of capacity range for some time. It added:

"None of the major steel consuming industries is likely to experience the kind of business improvement that would mean a major rush of new orders of the size to effect operations significantly."

Iron Age said, "market analysts believe from 2.5 to 4.5 million tons of steel were liquidated in the third quarter. This means much more was consumed than shipped.

"If liquidation ended now, it could mean that from 2.5 to 4.5 million more tons of steel would be shipped in the fourth quarter than the third, just to keep up with steel consumption.

"However, the inventory analysis does now show where inventories are located. In other words, with much metalworking on a recession basis, even depleted inventories do not necessarily mean an upturn in new orders."

Loan League Sets Officers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Wayne J. Howsmon of Ashtabula was elected unanimously today as president of the Ohio Savings and Loan League

Howsmon succeeds Harold C. Esper of Columbus for the year term. Re-elected at the closing session of the League's 72nd annual convention were Joseph E. Linville of Columbus, executive secretary and Eugene D. Rigney of Chillicothe, treasurer.

Also elected were A. P Hulse of Cambridge, first vice president, and Charles S Merion of Cleveland, second vice president.

Howsmon, executive vice president and secretary of the Peoples Savings and Local Co. of Ashtabula, told the league that a surplus of homes on the market. not tight money, was responsible for the present sag in construction of homes.

"Continuation of present monetary policy should help stabilize rates paid for savings and could contribute to an improvement in our economy late this year and early next," Howsmon said.

He said home construction which lagged in the 1940s in many areas finally caught up and produced a surplus of homes in these areas.

"This. more than anything else, is responsible for the present slowdown in construction," Howsmon continued.

"As long as the present easing of money continues. financing costs should show no increase. In areas where supply of funds exceeds demand, financing costs could ease."

In a session Tuesday, League Executive Secretary Linville told delegates that the excess of deposits to saving accounts over withdrawls in September "is most encouraging."

Linville reported that the demand for mortgage loans continued slow during September, but that the trend toward easier mortgage credit has picked up speed.

3 Pickets Fined $100 For Strike Violations

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Three pickets face fines of $100 each on charges of violating a court peace order in the United Auto Workers union strike at Philip Carey Co. in Middletown.

Judge P. P. Boli set the penalty Tuesday in Common Pleas Court and ordered a limit of three pickets at the plant main gate and two pickets each at other entrances.

Convicted were Arnold King, Virgil Hicks and Gary Bowling, all of Middletown. King was charged with assaulting a trucker making a delivery, and Hicks and Bowling were accused of slugging Carey employees enroute to work.

Mr. K Cancels Visit To Cuba

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev is reported canceling a planned visit to Cuba—at this time—mainly because he fears it would backfire against the Soviet Union everywhere in Latin America.

Soviet security chiefs are also understood to have warned Khrushchev that mounting unrest and anti-Communist plotting in Cuba might imperil his personal safety.

This information comes from Iron Curtain officials who are in a position to know something about the Kremlin leader's decisions and moods.

He had tentatively scheduled a three-day goodwill visit to Cuba at the end of his United Nations appearance, they reported. Castro was under the impression he would come when he left New York to return to Havana 10 days ago.

But Khrushchev changed his mind, these informants said, when told his much-publicized meetings with Castro in New York already had badly hurt Soviet prestige in Latin America.

Pictures of Khrushchev, a delighted grin on his face, hugging Castro are reported to have aroused anti-Communist and anti-Castro opposition even in countries which had sympathized with the Cuban leader's social reform programs.

Rather than risk a massive setback to his campaign to woo other Latin American nations, Khrushchev decided to pass up the Cuban visit now.

Khrushchev is now reported planning to fly straight to Moscow after his 25-day New York visit ends Thursday night. He is understood to be planning to "report" to the Soviet people at a giant rally at Moscow Stadium.

In the past few days, Khrushchev has been in a grumpy, sour mood, even in private, according to these informants. He has suddenly limited his cocktail cricuit appearances where for three weeks he had been seeking to win friends among neutral and uncommited nations.

Court Stops Picketing At Cleveland Hospital

CLEVELAND (AP)—A temporary injunction banning all picketing at Huron Road Hospital by a newly formed union was granted Tuesday by Common Pleas Judge Daniel H. Wasserman. Local 500 of the Hospital Workers Union had been engaged in picketing for two days at the emergency entrance, main entrance and parking lot of the hospital in East Cleveland.

In granting the injunction, the judge said: "We can't condone a strike against the sick people in a hospital." The injunction was against Angelo J. Amato, president of the union, and Sam J. Vecchio, secretary-treasurer.

Amato claims the Local represents 113 of the 170 non-professional employes at Huron Road Hospital who work in the kitchens, make beds, clean and do other housekeeping chores.

Telephones Try Patience

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Alexander Graham Bell did a great thing when he invented the telephone.

It served people apart. It brought them by wire closer together across county and continent.

It seemed for a while that the telephone was the greatest sociological instrument ever devised.

It made the world a universal "Hello."

There are those who now believe the telephone has an even greater future by marrying it to television. I don't mean to explore here the possibilities of pay-TV by wire.

What I mean to discuss is the possibility you can phone people and see them as you talk to them personally.

This prospect may sound like a fine scientific achievement, but I think its real appeal is to teenagers rather than grownups.

Teen-agers seem to have a fascination for each other's face and voice which to the average grown-up is repellent. They could use the teaming of electronic voice and electronic sight to enjoyment. No one else I know can.

The truth is that the telephone rather overdid its ability to say "Hello" to everybody and anybody.

Certainly, like the Pony Express and the telegraph, it was a dramatic victory in communications. But the better it got, the more problems the telephone created.

It became an instrument to invade the greatest and most indispensable communication a man can have—the communication of his own thought to himself, which needs no wires. But it does demand privacy.

The telephone is a great instrument of many purposes. It saves the housewife from walking to stores. It speeds business decisions. It is the voice of reach to friends. In an emergency it is a cry of help that brings quick aid.

It knits the lonely; it joins the gossips; it keeps, in occasional and needed reunion, the loyalties of farflung families.

But the telephone does other and more dismal things, too.

People you call up and would prefer not to hear you have to do so. People you don't want to hear from again have this invisible choice to your ear.

Strangers call you up and ask you to do things you don't want to.

Answering a telephone, which originally was a thrill, becomes in time a chore and a fear.

In business there is also a tendency toward putting a hired ear between your own ear and the phone. Anyone who picks up his own phone and answers it when it rings is behind the times.

I would phone up Dr. Alexander Graham Bell in heaven and complain about this except for one thing.

I'm sure the reply would be: "Dr. Bell is not available now. Can I take a message?"

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Sassy Child Upset By His Playmates

I get many letters about the boy, around five or six, whose playmates seem to gang up on him. In his frustration he seems to grow more aggressive toward other children and harder to live with at home. Writes an Ohio mother: "We are parents of a five-year-old boy, who, until this summer, was a sweet, good-natured little fellow, amiable and a pleasure to have around. This summer, it seems, he has been on the fringe of the activities of his playmates — all five to six years old — and has been on the receiving end of teasing and pushing around. The days have been filled with screams and tears. Billy cries about something all the time.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"Billy has been hitting the boys and biting on the slightest provocation; and consequently he has been banished from most of the yards of his friends.

—:—

"AT HOME he is extremely sassy and, although he still obeys us, it is with mouthy reluctance. Every dinner hour starts with "I don't want any dinner. I won't get in my chair, etc.'

"If he is sent to his room and refused his dinner, he screams and kicks the door, throws his belongings around.

"When we take him out to visit relatives or friends, there is invariably a scene where Billy has struck or bitten a child.

"We have been very patient, talking and trying to explain things to him, trying to ignore the sassy remarks. We have resorted to spanking for displays of temper and striking the other children.

"His Dad is wonderful with him spends a lot of time with him —playing ball, wrestling, occasional fishing, etc. They do things together.

—:—

"BILLY'S BEEN checked by his pediatrician and found in good physical condition."

My reply in part:

Perhaps you could attract a few children his age to your home and spend some time studying him and helping him to adapt himself to them.

You can do a lot right in your own home. Make clear to him that if he doesn't want his dinner he doesn't need to eat it, but that if he leaves the table he can't come back to this meal and he can't have anything to eat until the next meal.

When he is most agitated, you should be most serene.

Don't explain so much. The more you talk, the more upset he gets and then you get upset, too.

When he strikes other children, assign him to sit in a chair, unamused, where you can see him, for 20 minutes. Do the same when he bites them.

But praise him when he is good, which is often.

Read a great deal to him. Have lots of fun with him.

Michigan Town Limits Homes To 3 Cats Each

DETROIT (AP)—The Highland Park City Council has voted that no home may have more than three cats. Violators will be subject to a $50 fine and-or 90 days in jail.

The ruling came after Police Chief Dewey T. Schultz told the council of numerous complaints of cats causing disturbances. He said he found 27 cats in one home.

Syracuse played football 18 years before it met an intersectional rival. Then the Orange beat Michigan, 20 to 4, in 1908.

Steel Shows Better 'Tone'

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel market has a slightly better tone this week, Iron Age Magazine said today.

The publication attributed the improvement to "the inevitable end of inventory cutbacks, backed up by a small improvement in new orders."

However, the magazine said it now appeared that operations will hover in the 30 per cent of capacity range for some time. It added:

"None of the major steel consuming industries is likely to experience the kind of business improvement that would mean a major rush of new orders of the size to effect operations significantly."

Iron Age said, "market analysts believe from 2.5 to 4.5 million tons of steel were liquidated in the third quarter. This means much more was consumed than shipped.

"If liquidation ended now, it could mean that from 2.5 to 4.5 million more tons of steel would be shipped in the fourth quarter than the third, just to keep up with steel consumption.

"However, the inventory analysis does now show where inventories are located. In other words, with much metalworking on a recession basis, even depleted inventories do not necessarily mean an upturn in new orders."

Loan League Sets Officers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Wayne J. Howsmon of Ashtabula was elected unanimously today as president of the Ohio Savings and Loan League.

Howsmon succeeds Harold C. Esper of Columbus for the year term. Re-elected at the closing session of the League's 72nd annual convention were Joseph E. Linville of Columbus, executive secretary and Eugene D. Rigney of Chillicothe, treasurer.

Also elected were A. P. Hulse of Cambridge, first vice president, and Charles S. Merion of Cleveland, second vice president.

Howsmon, executive vice president and secretary of the Peoples Savings and Local Co. of Ashtabula, told the league that a surplus of homes on the market, not tight money, was responsible for the present sag in construction of homes.

"Continuation of present monetary policy should help stabilize rates paid for savings and could contribute to an improvement in our economy late this year and early next," Howsmon said.

He said home construction which lagged in the 1940s in many areas finally caught up and produced a surplus of homes in these areas.

"This, more than anything else, is responsible for the present slowdown in construction," Howsmon continued.

"As long as the present easing of money continues, financing costs should show no increase. In areas where supply of funds exceeds demand, financing costs could ease."

In a session Tuesday, League Executive Secretary Linville told delegates that the excess of deposits to saving accounts over withdrawls in September "is most encouraging."

Linville reported that the demand for mortgage loans continued slow during September, but that the trend toward easier mortgage credit has picked up speed.

3 Pickets Fined $100 For Strike Violations

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Three pickets face fines of $100 each on charges of violating a court peace order in the United Auto Workers union strike at Philip Carey Co. in Middletown.

Judge P. P. Bull set the penalty Tuesday in Common Pleas Court and ordered a limit of three pickets at the plant main gate and two pickets each at other entrances.

Convicted were Arnold King, Virgil Hicks and Gary Bowling, all of Middletown. King was charged with assaulting a trucker making a delivery, and Hicks and Bowling were accused of slugging Carey employees enroute to work.

Mr. K Cancels Visit To Cuba

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev is reported canceling a planned visit to Cuba—at this time—mainly because he fears it would backfire against the Soviet Union everywhere in Latin America.

Soviet security chiefs are also understood to have warned Khrushchev that mounting unrest and anti-Communist plotting in Cuba might imperil his personal safety.

This information comes from Iron Curtain officials who are in a position to know something about the Kremlin leader's decisions and moods.

He had tentatively scheduled a three-day goodwill visit to Cuba at the end of his United Nations appearance, they reported. Castro was under the impression he would come when he left New York to return to Havana 10 days ago.

But Khrushchev changed his mind, those informants said, when told his much-publicized meetings with Castro in New York already had badly hurt Soviet prestige in Latin America.

Pictures of Khrushchev, a delighted grin on his face, hugging Castro are reported to have aroused anti-Communist and anti-Castro opposition even in countries which had sympathized with the Cuban leader's social reform programs.

Rather than risk a massive setback to his campaign to woo other Latin American nations, Khrushchev decided to pass up the Cuban visit now.

Khrushchev is now reported planning to fly straight to Moscow after his 25-day New York visit ends Thursday night. He is understood to be planning to "report" to the Soviet people at a giant rally at Moscow Stadium.

In the past few days, Khrushchev has been in a grumpy, sour mood, even in private, according to those informants. He has suddenly limited his cocktail circuit appearances where for three weeks he had been seeking to win friends among neutral and uncommitted nations.

Court Stops Picketing At Cleveland Hospital

CLEVELAND (AP)—A temporary injunction banning all picketing at Huron Road Hospital by a newly formed union was granted Tuesday by Common Pleas Judge Daniel H. Wasserman. Local 300 of the Hospital Workers Union had been engaged in picketing for two days at the emergency entrance, main entrance and parking lot of the hospital in East Cleveland.

In granting the injunction, the judge said: "We can't condone a strike against the sick people in a hospital." The injunction was against Angelo J. Amato, president of the union, and Sam J. Vecchio, secretary-treasurer.

Amato claims the Local represents 113 of the 170 non-professional employes at Huron Road Hospital who work in the kitchens, make beds, clean and do other housekeeping chores.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I've dated a boy for two years but never steadily. During that time he frequently has followed me when I've dated others. I've turned around in theaters and seen him sitting behind me.

Often when I've returned from an evening out he's parked in front of our house or sitting on our porch.

Sometimes he's on the front steps or stretched out on the lawn.

I find his behavior annoying but I never considered it any more than that until a friend told me he must be nuts and maybe dangerous. What can I do about it? — ENID.

-:-

Dear Enid: The boy may be only a pest but there's no reason for you to be hounded by him.

Ask your father to keep an eye open for this kook and when he catches him on your property to make it plenty clear he's not to follow you or hang around the house ever again. The boy should be told also if he shows up once more, the police will be notified.

Gold Bricker

Dear Ann: Our son is 23. He served his time in the Army and now has a job that pays him $110 a week. He dresses like Prince Rainier, wouldn't wear a shirt without cuff links and has very high-class taste in food.

He spends every cent on himself and is in debt to the clothing stores. He owes on a new car and takes girls to the most expensive places in town.

My husband makes less than our son does and yet he often has to lend him money. Don't you think a boy 23 should pay something for room, board, laundry and maid service?

I've hinted a few times but he says he wouldn't insult us by offering us money. — JUST FOLKS.

Dear Folks: Tell this spoiled, self-centered leech that you'd like to be "insulted" with about $125 a month. This should have been decided when the young man came back from the service and went to work. If he thinks he can do it cheaper elsewhere, invite him to try it.

Oomph-Pa-Pa

Dear Ann Landers: You never had a problem like this before; in fact, you may have to ask someone to help you find an answer—unless you happen to play the pabboon yourself.

I'm 13 years old now—a boy—and have wanted to play the bassoon since I can remember. I begged my folks for years to buy me one and they finally did—six months ago.

The trouble is they won't let me practice. Whenever I start my mother says she has a splitting headache or my pa says I'm interfering with his TV program or my sister says she can't hear her hi-fi.

When no one is at home and I take out the bassoon, the neighbors phone up (we live in a four-family flat) and tell me the baby is trying to sleep, or Grandpa isn't well.

How can I ever get accomplished if no one will let me practice? Please help me. — LEWIS.

Dear Lewis: Every school has a few music rooms where kids can practice to their hearts' content. Take the bassoon to school, get permission from the music instructor and you can blow your brains out several hours a day if you want to.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Science Eyes 'Space Drill'

By The Associated Press

How to make a drilling rig for the moon, and how to feed a toad are among this week's scientific questions:

Exploring the moon

Scientists have started designing a space drill to dig down into mysteries of the moon's surface.

Carried up by a spaceship, the drill will be operated by remote control, with electronic systems messaging back what it finds.

It isn't a simple challenge, for the moon has no air. Temperatures can range from 270 degrees Fahrenheit down to 184 below zero. The drill must survive a bumpy landing, and cannot be very heavy. Scientists at Armour Research Foundation, Chicago, are wrestling also with questions of what kind of drill head to use, the best method of powering the drill, and how hard the moon's surface is.

On the Fly

Toads will only eat something which is moving. Then with a flick of their tongues, they corral their dinner.

In the laboratory or home terrarium (a hotel for toads and such), they will eat bits of hamburger, carrots or even some breakfast cereals if the nonliving food is waved in front of them.

This is tedious, so researchers designed a turntable or lazy Susan, putting food on the rim. The toads seize it as food goes by.

If toads ride on the turntable along with the food, they still will eat. This indicates that movement of the background induces perception of motion in the toad. The story is told in Science by Walter Kaess, University of Connecticut psychologist, and Francis Kaess of Storrs, Conn., Grammar School.

Supreme Court Plans Review Of Ohio Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to review the convictions of five persons cited for contempt for refusing to answer questions as to possible Communist and subversive activities in Ohio and other states.

The five were questioned by the Ohio Un-American Activities Commission at the Stark County courthouse in Canton, Ohio, on Oct. 21, 1953. Convicted in March 1955, Laverne Slagle, Olga Perry, Rose Mladajan, Eula Ann Cooper and Paul Bohus each were sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $500. Their appeal questioned constitutionality of legislation creating the Ohio commission.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What is really the distinction between "pressing" and "ironing"?

A. When pressing, you place your iron on the fabric, lift it, and place on the fabric again. When you iron, you push the iron back and forth. Pressing is used for all fabrics, ironing only for washable fabrics, also for smoothing out wrinkles and shaping a garment.

Q. How can I make a hotter fire in the log fireplace?

A. Do not remove all the wood ashes from the open fireplace. Leave some of them as a bed for the next logs to be burned. These ashes will retain a great amount of heat and give a quicker and hotter fire.

Gold Bricker

Dear Ann: Our son is 23. He served his time in the Army and now has a job that pays him $110 a week. He dresses like Prince Rainier, wouldn't wear a shirt without cuff links and has very high-class taste in food.

He spends every cent on himself and is in debt to the clothing stores. He owes on a new car and takes girls to the most expensive places in town.

My husband makes less than our son does and yet he often has to lend him money. Don't you think a boy 23 should pay something for room, board, laundry and maid service?

I've hinted a few times but he says he wouldn't insult us by offering us money. — JUST FOLKS.

Dear Folks: Tell this spoiled, self-centered leech that you'd like to be "insulted" with about $125 a month. This should have been decided when the young man came back from the service and went to work. If he thinks he can do it cheaper elsewhere, invite him to try it.

Oomph-Pa-Pa

Dear Ann Landers: You never had a problem like this before; in fact, you may have to ask someone to help you find an answer—unless you happen to play the pabboon yourself.

I'm 13 years old now—a boy—and have wanted to play the bassoon since I can remember. I begged my folks for years to buy me one and they finally did—six months ago.

The trouble is they won't let me practice. Whenever I start my mother says she has a splitting headache or my pa says I'm interfering with his TV program or my sister says she can't hear her hi-fi.

When no one is at home and I take out the bassoon, the neighbors phone up (we live in a four-family flat) and tell me the baby is trying to sleep, or Grandpa isn't well.

How can I ever get accomplished if no one will let me practice? Please help me. — LEWIS.

Dear Lewis: Every school has a few music rooms where kids can practice to their hearts' content. Take the bassoon to school, get permission from the music instructor and you can blow your brains out several hours a day if you want to.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Science Eyes 'Space Drill'

By The Associated Press

How to make a drilling rig for the moon, and how to feed a toad are among this week's scientific questions:

Exploring the moon

Scientists have started designing a space drill to dig down into mysteries of the moon's surface.

Carried up by a spaceship, the drill will be operated by remote control, with electronic systems messaging back what it finds.

It isn't a simple challenge, for the moon has no air. Temperatures can range from 270 degrees Fahrenheit down to 184 below zero. The drill must survive a bumpy landing, and cannot be very heavy. Scientists at Armour Research Foundation, Chicago, are wrestling also with questions of what kind of drill head to use, the best method of powering the drill, and how hard the moon's surface is.

On the Fly

Toads will only eat something which is moving. Then with a flick of their tongues, they corral their dinner.

In the laboratory or home terrarium (a hotel for toads and such), they will eat bits of hamburger, carrots or even some breakfast cereals if the nonliving food is waved in front of them.

This is tedious, so researchers designed a turntable or lazy Susan, putting food on the rim. The toads seize it as food goes by.

If toads ride on the turntable along with the food, they still will eat. This indicates that movement of the background induces perception of motion in the toad. The story is told in Science by Walter Kaess, University of Connecticut psychologist, and Francis Kaess of Storrs, Conn., Grammar School.

Supreme Court Plans Review Of Ohio Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to review the convictions of five persons cited for contempt for refusing to answer questions as to possible Communist and subversive activities in Ohio and other states.

The five were questioned by the Ohio Un-American Activities Commission at the Stark County courthouse in Canton, Ohio, on Oct. 21, 1953. Convicted in March 1955, Laverne Slagle, Olga Perry, Rose Mladajan, Eula Ann Cooper and Paul Bohus each were sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $500. Their appeal questioned constitutionality of legislation creating the Ohio commission.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What is really the distinction between "pressing" and "ironing"?

A. When pressing, you place your iron on the fabric, lift it, and place on the fabric again. When you iron, you push the iron back and forth. Pressing is used for all fabrics, ironing only for washable fabrics, also for smoothing out wrinkles and shaping a garment.

Q. How can I make a hotter fire in the log fireplace?

A. Do not remove all the wood ashes from the open fireplace. Leave some of them as a bed for the next logs to be burned. These ashes will retain a great amount of heat and give a quicker and hotter fire.
